AMERICAN FLAG TO START BIG DRIVE

Greatest Move in History of War to Mark Appearance of United States Expedition on Field in France, Declares a Returning Diplomat—Enthusiasm at Washington.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 2.—"Immediately after the Stars and Stripes are first flung to the breeze over the trenches in Europe, within the next few months, you will see the most gigantic drive forward that this history of war has ever known."

This was the prediction made today by a diplomat of the Allies, recently arrived here from Europe.

"When the fighting men of Europe know that America's military strength actually is with them they will push on with a great force, that will be a marvel to the military men of the world," the envoy said.

The English "Tommy," the French "Poldi" and the Italian Bersagliere all have the utmost respect for the fighting man "From the states."

Europe anxiously awaits the arrival of the troops from the United States. It is learned today, and anticipates their entrance into the trench warfare as a signal for greater activity than has been seen on the front since the trying days when Marshal Joffre so valiantly declared "They shall not pass."

"You of America, respect your troops no more than we of Europe," the recently arrived diplomat said. "We of Europe already feel the psychological effect of your entrance into the war, and now we are waiting for the physical impact that is bound to spur our men on when they see your glorious flag flying beside the flags of the other Allies."

"It is not only a psychological effect that will follow," a foreign military expert ventured, "it is a real force a physical force which is going to help. None can doubt the bravery of the soldiers of France, England and Italy, but there is a dash of courage in the American soldier—the same spirit that made that famous remark, 'Damn the torpedoes, go ahead'—which we military men are anxious in our anticipation of. Our men are fighting on to the end each day. For days they have been fighting on to a seemingly endless end. They are weary of warfare, still they fight on for a cause—it is a mechanical sort of a warfare. The smiling spirit has left most of them; they fight only for a cause and not because it is a military game. Once the American soldiers, fresh and eager, jump into the fray, it is bound to arouse our men to new efforts, from the mere fact that they will feel the spirit of Americanism and the atmosphere of liberty, which is bound to follow your boys in khaki."

In the national capital the war spirit becomes more and more tense each day. Swelled chair officers are becoming aroused in enthusiasm. The lethargy which has hung over the state and navy building for years—almost a revered cloud it is—breaking away.

Action—that is the word on every lip, and everyone awaits with utmost interest the first real action in which United States troops participate.

DETECTIVES SEEK KIDNAPPED BABY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Springfield, Mo., June 2.—Burns detectives today took charge of the search for 14-months old Lloyd Keet, son of J. Holland Keet, wealthy banker, and sole heir to the $3,000,000 estate of his grandmother, Mrs. Kate Keet.

One of the first steps was to send widespread throughout the country photographs of the baby whose disappearance parallels the kidnapping of little "Billy" Whittia, son of J. P. Whittia, wealthy Sharon, Pa., lawyer, over a decade ago.

A groom has set out over the Keet mansion which can be dispelled only by the return of the child. The hysterical grief of the mother has been replaced by a dry-eyed sorrow.

Each time the telephone jingles, each time a foot-step echoes on the porch, the mother hopes for word that her baby had been found.

Detectives are working on the theory that a woman engineered the kidnapping plot. No one else, they say, could have entered the Keet nursery Wednesday night and taken the child without awakening the nurse who slept a few feet from the baby's crib.

Keet left his residence shortly after midnight in response to a note delivered by a messenger boy. He insisted on going alone and refused to state his destination. Just before daylight he returned, pale and haggard and silent.

Too Big For Athletic Field.

John Robinson's Circus, which will show here Thursday, will show on the regular grounds on Stephan street and not on the Athletic Field. The ball grounds are not large enough to house the big top. The show carries with it 15 elephants, 30 tons of wild beasts, a baby hippo born in New York Zoo last year and the usual amount of other animals. There will be a big free street parade in the morning.

AERIAL BOMBS TO CARRY A MESSAGE

Buy Bonds and Avoid Bombs is Motto to be Spread by Aviators From Above the Clouds—Optimistic Over War Bond Sales.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 2.—"To avoid bombs buy bonds."

This message will come hurtling down from the clouds to the American people next week.

A squadron of government aviators, numbering probably a score, flying over hundreds of towns and cities in the United States, will show down Liberty Loan circulars bearing in red the inscription:

"This was dropped by a United States government aviator. It might have been a German bomb."

The aerial message will mark the beginning of the final drive to place a Liberty Bond in the home of every American. It will be the most spectacular feature of the biggest public campaign ever waged in the world's history.

Figures are taboo at Liberty Loan headquarters. But there exists no doubt as to the full subscription of the big loan within the time limit—June 15. The whole effort of the unparalleled campaign is to reach everyone—the real success of the loan being measured by the number of individual investors.

"We expect to have called at least three phases of the desirability of the Liberty Loan to the attention of every man, woman and child before the campaign comes to a close ten days hence," said Guy Emerson, secretary of the Liberty Loan committee today.

"To this end we are utilizing every organized agency possible. The women in their various organizations, school children, actors, clergymen, wholesalers, retailers, professional men, Boy Scouts and a dozen other organizations are all doing their bit. The printed literature we are distributing runs far in the millions. Fifteen languages are being employed so that none may miss the opportunity to help shorten the war and help bring victory, freedom and peace."

"Great Britain had eight million subscribers to her last big loan and France six million. We hope to have ten million individuals on the roll of honor for the United States' first big war step."

SEEKING NURSES IN ULSTER.

Red Cross Recruiting Being Carried on From Albany.

Registered nurses in New York state, who wish to serve the American Red Cross in the emergency detachments for active service are called upon by the organization to tender their services in order that there may be available all through the state organized groups ready for instant call. Miss Anna L. Ailline, 108 South Swan street, Albany, is in charge of the recruiting in twelve counties of the state including Albany, Columbia, Dutchess, Fulton, Greene, Hamilton, Montgomery, Orange, Schoharie, Schenectady, Sullivan and Ulster.

"We are now face to face with the certainty of an early call to put into active service all emergency detachments which we shall be able to organize," says Clara D. Noyes, director of the Bureau of Nursing Service in the American Red Cross.

"We feel sure that we shall receive the utmost co-operation."

HOWARD TO CLOSE CAMPAIGN.

Ex-Convict No. 11,221 at Fair Street Reformed Church Sunday.

Frank E. Howard, better known as Ex-Convict No. 11,221, will close his eleven days' campaign in Ulster county on Sunday, by speaking at the Fair Street Reformed Church at 10:30 a. m. and at the tabernacle on Delaware avenue at 7:30 p. m.

The meeting at the tabernacle promises to be the greatest demonstration in the interest of temperance ever seen in this city. Mr. Howard has charmed every audience to which he has spoken in the past, and a large number of the churches in Kingston have given up their services on Sunday night so that their audiences would be free to attend the tabernacle service. It is doubtful if all can find room where to hear him. Beside, he is to speak of "His Life in Prison," which is considered as his best effort.

The great choir of last winter will be present to sing, led by Miss Lusk-Kamp, who also, at Mr. Howard's request will sing, "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight." The song books used in the Peacock meetings will be used at this service. It is hoped that the ushers will be present.

Alien Enemies Must Move.

On Friday, June 1, it became necessary for all alien enemies who live or do business within a half mile of any Federal building to move beyond the limit unless they had secured a permit to live or do business within the restricted district. Many alien enemies living in Kingston and in the county near Federal property have applied for such permits and any alien enemy who has to seek a permit will be liable to arrest. The permits were issued by the United States Marshal in New York city.

LITTLE FEAR OF GENERAL RIOTING

Every Precaution Taken for Thorough Observance of Registration Day Next Tuesday—Citizens Volunteer to Maintain Order.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 2.—The United States will have a complete registration of its "war strength" as authorized under the selective conscription act next Tuesday despite all efforts to prevent. Never before in the history of the nation have such sweeping arrangements been made to meet an emergency.

Every possible precaution has been taken. And, while it is considered certain that there will be some disturbances in certain sections, the reports reaching the attorney general today indicated that they will hardly be more than could be expected at a general election.

A good part of the plans that have been made to "muzzle" the anti-draft advocates, and to meet the emergencies, are of a character that will not be disclosed. The administration is very hopeful that many of these plans need not be called into execution. They are for the most part precautionary but if needed they will prove most effective.

One of the encouraging developments reaching Washington today was the announcement that patriotic citizens in all parts of the country are organizing vigilance committees to aid in the enforcement of the registration law and to keep down all pro-German efforts to defeat it. These citizens are to operate on registration day entirely within the law. They are to have the complete co-operation of the municipal, county, state and federal authorities.

Acting under general directions issued by the department of justice here these citizens have already prepared unofficial lists of the men who should register. They will check up the registration lists to see that all such names are carried on their records. Those who have not shown up early to answer the questions will be sent for. For the latter purpose it is declared at the office of the provost marshal general that there have been more automobiles promised than for any similar nation-wide event in the past.

From every quarter the attorney general today was receiving offers of assistance. The direct appeal of the administration to all "good citizens" to assist in the work is receiving unprecedented response. As a result officials today confidently expected that 99 per cent of the eligibles will be examined after the first 1,000,000.

Just when the total lists will be available so that the exact number of individuals that registered can be ascertained is not yet known. The various state results are expected to be compiled by state committees and then telegraphed here to Washington.

Officials say they do not believe that they will get the total lists before the end of next week.

Although on the surface there has always been apparent grounds for serious apprehension, and the department of justice has ordered many arrests, as registration day approaches the general sentiment in favor of the peaceful completion of the plan becomes more favorable. Officials say that they are well convinced that the widespread rioting that seemed almost certain a week ago now will not materialize. Summary action at the outset and the making plain that efforts to interfere with a complete registration would approach close to treason all has had its effect. And in this connection there has not been any lost motion in placing the blame. A certain element of the pro-German Socialist faction of the Socialist organization, practically all of the I. W. W., and isolated pacifists have been responsible for all of the agitation. Every leader in this movement is known and blank warrants will be in waiting for them on registration day should they continue their efforts.

It is violating no secret to say that the entire cabinet is a unit in backing up the president in the plans for the enforcement of the penalties against all persons who interfere with registration. An example must be made now, it is asserted. There probably will come a later registration for men of other ages and the nation must begin to realize, officials say, that conscription is its only weapon against military aggression and that any who interfere with its workings are enemies of the state.

GERMAN SEAMEN ESCAPE.

Interred at Ellis Island, They Swim to the Jersey Shore.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 2.—Escaping from their internment quarters at Ellis Island today, William Schultz, 21, and Gus Steinhardt, two seamen from one of the big German liners taken over by the United States, swam three quarters of a mile to the Connetquot shore in a dash for liberty.

Schultz was apprehended as he climbed out of the water, shivering from the cold swim. Steinhardt was a faster swimmer, eluded pursuers and officers are searching the German "settlements" of Jersey City and Hoboken.

One Drunk, One Day.

Louis Hoffman, 41 years old, came to Kingston on Friday and spent too much time sleeping to lay the dust in his throat. He was picked up drunk on Barnum avenue unable to care for himself by Officer Boyd.

Recorder Lang sent Louis to jail for one day to give him a chance to sober up.

FOUR YEARS OF WAR THINKS CHANDLER

State Constabulary Head Appeals to Albany County Physicians to Join Medical Reserve and Meets With Many Responses.

Predicting that the world war will continue for another four years, Major George F. Chandler, commander of the state constabulary, Friday night made a vigorous appeal to one of the most representative gatherings of physicians Albany county has ever known, in the drill shed of the Second Field Hospital Corps. The meeting was under the direction of the Capital District Medical Officers' Reserve Association and the Auxiliary Medical Defense Committee of Albany county.

The object of the meeting, says the Albany Argus, was to stimulate interest among physicians in this section along military lines. Major Chandler and the other speakers of the evening set forth the duties of physicians and stated that physicians are needed more so than recruits for the army and navy. The physicians were told that before this government can organize a competent army and navy to defeat Germany approximately 40,000 physicians must give their services to the country to examine the recruits and help the government in other lines in organizing its two branches of defense.

Besides Major Chandler the other speakers were Major Richard Derby, son-in-law of Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt; Major Henry L. K. Shaw, Major Harold D. Cochrane and Captain J. Louis Donahue. Captain Donahue presided at the meeting. Gathered under the drill shed roof were eminent physicians of this and surrounding counties, men well advanced in years, but who are willing to sacrifice their practice to aid this country in defeating Germany. The assemblage included a vast number of young physicians who are very anxious to give their time and attention to recruiting and assisting Uncle Sam make his army and navy.

Major Chandler urged his brother practitioners not to hesitate in enlisting in the Medical Officers' Reserve. "Don't be afraid that if you enlist some other physician will steal your practice," Major Chandler said. "Sin e I got in the military game I have left my practice several times and I find that every time I return my practice grows larger instead of decreasing. Your service is needed by your country and now is your time to get in line and do your share of duty."

"The government needs between 30,000 and 40,000 physicians to examine the conscripted army of 1,000,000 men. There will be others to be examined after the first 1,000,000. If you are not in the line now, I am willing to bet that this war will continue for at least another four years. When the war first started pessimists said it would not last more than three years. Little did they realize at that time that this country was to be one of the Allies fighting to suppress Germany."

"In the opinion of the best physicians of this country and Europe this war will last indefinitely. We are going to use 1,000,000 men before the war is over. We must defeat Germany. America has got to bear the brunt of the war. England has done her share and is now about exhausted while France has done remarkably well. It is up to the medical profession to get in the military game right away and bring all the pressure to bear on winning the war and defeating Germany."

Applause that resounded throughout the spacious rink followed Major Chandler's talk. So enthused over the physicians' appeal were the physicians that many cheered. A number of Albany physicians have already affiliated themselves with the Medical Officers' Reserve. Several well known Albany physicians have done her share and is now about exhausted while France has done remarkably well. It is up to the medical profession to get in the military game right away and bring all the pressure to bear on winning the war and defeating Germany."

After the meeting the physicians discussed in an informal manner the best ways physicians can aid the country. Major Chandler and Major Derby answered hundreds of questions pertaining to military methods put to them by the physicians.

CIRCUS TENT COLLAPSES.

One Killed and Three Injured in Barnum Circus.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Uniontown, Pa., June 2.—Mrs. Elizabeth Heilmann, 32, was killed and three other women—Mrs. Early Areford, Mrs. Hortense G. Frank and Miss Fern C. Levinger, 19, were seriously injured in the collapse of the main tent of the Barnum and Bailey Circus and the ensuing panic here during a storm late yesterday.

A gust of wind lifted the huge top of the tent from its supports and immediately the poles began to fall. Mrs. Heilmann was found dead when the rush subsided.

During the excitement six elephants broke loose and ran wild over the grounds but were captured before doing any damage. The circus suffered a loss of $25,000.

One Drunk, One Day.

Louis Hoffman, 41 years old, came to Kingston on Friday and spent too much time sleeping to lay the dust in his throat. He was picked up drunk on Barnum avenue unable to care for himself by Officer Boyd.

FINAL ORDERS ON MILITARY CENSUS

County Chairmen of Home Defense Committees Hear Outlines of State Inventory to be Attempted on June 11th—A Survey of Entire Population.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., June 2.—County Chairmen of Home Defense Committees and county directors of the census met Friday in the office of Captain G. G. Henry, state director of the census, for final instructions on their census work, which will last from June 11 to June 25.

Governor Whitman, through the adjutant general, Louis W. Stotesbury, sent word that he was sorry pressure of business prevented him from coming to address the meeting, as he wanted to personally express his gratification at the thoroughness of the county committee organization and preparations for the census.

After the meeting, at which vexed questions concerning the manner of taking the census were threshed out and explained to the county representatives, Governor Whitman said: "I wanted to give those men a message to take back home with them, urging the county committees, in their zeal for census work, not to forget recruiting for the National Guard, for the Home Defense Corps, and for the depot units of troops to be called for service out of the state. I wanted to tell them to be sure and push the sale of Liberty Loan bonds. I am sorry I could not get to the meeting."

In addressing the meeting of county representatives Adjutant General Stotesbury said the "willingness and co-operation of the volunteer forces was a revelation" to the governor and the state authorities.

Representatives of all but two counties attending the meeting, Columbia and Putnam, not being recorded.

Captain Henry, who called the meeting as an informal conference for the exchange of ideas so the representatives of every county could get clearly in mind the scope and purposes of the census work, made a short address before a general discussion of the work was taken up.

"The state census is merely a step in the preparedness program of New York state," said Captain Henry. "It is a survey of our population so we can figure the military resources in the way of man power."

Captain Henry urged that in each county the local organization be divided so that while one man—the director of the census—would be in charge of the whole work, he would have two lieutenants, one in charge of the enumerating and the other in charge of the clerical work. Census enumerators should work under captains, he suggested, and laid out a plan of county organization which he said could be followed or not, as the county authorities themselves were inclined.

Captain Henry also urged forbearance in regard to getting the census blanks answered, declaring men or women should not be thrust into jail for failure to answer until every means of getting them to answer had been tried.

"The purpose of the census is not to get the jails filled," Captain Henry said. "It is to get the questions answered to give the state authorities the information they want."

The discussion on the census lasted all afternoon. E. P. Goodrich, who is in charge of the census work in Greater New York, told how many difficult details of the work had been solved there.

Changes in British Cabinet.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 2.—Further changes in the British cabinet are likely if the opinions expressed by the London newspapers today are to be credited. It is now predicted that Lord Rhonda, president of the local government board, is to resign along with Albert Illingworth, the postmaster general. There are conflicting reports as to the cause of the cabinet reorganization. Some attribute it to home rule difficulties, others to the labor situation and the general dissatisfaction over the rising cost of food while still others blame it upon dissatisfaction over the failure of the British to break through the German front in France.

Amnesty to Sinn Fein.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 2.—"There is reason to believe that the government soon is to grant amnesty to all Irish Sinn Fein prisoners now in jail," the Chronicle said today. The newspaper evidently approves of such action for it says that this would undoubtedly help to clear the clouded atmosphere of Irish politics. A dispatch from Dublin says that the council of the Irish Unionist party resolved at a meeting yesterday to participate in the home rule convention.

To Rescue Germany.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 2.—German-Americans were urged to "set their faces like flint" against the "monstrous doctrines and acts of German rulership" in an address by Otto H. Kahn, whose parentage was German, in an address before the Merchants' Association here. The struggle is "To rescue Germany" no less than the rest of the world, he declared.

EVERY MAN'S DUTY REGISTRATION DAY

Governor Whitman Writes Chairmen of Home Defense Committees of What Nation and State Are Expecting June 5 and June 11.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., June 2.—Governor Charles S. Whitman has sent letters to chairmen of the Home Defense Committees of the state calling attention to the fact that the selective draft registration scheduled for June 5 should have undivided support, and that "it is not only our duty but our patriotic privilege as citizens of the state of New York to support the president with all the powers that lie in us."

The governor urges the chairmen to "call upon each and every citizen of your country to so conduct himself on the fifth of June that he may best and quickest accomplish this purpose (the registration of all males between the ages of twenty-one and thirty); that he do so with calmness, intelligence and truthfulness, thereby serving his state and his country in its time of need; assuring him at the same time that if he does not do so he is breaking the law and will be properly punished."

The governor in his letter declares "it is the duty of every man in our great state to act in accordance with this draft law willingly, quickly and to the best of his ability."

Then the governor's letter goes on to explain the value of the state census to be taken between June 11 and June 25, saying:

"Immediately following the federal enrollment we are to take a state military census for another and quite as important purpose. It should be borne in mind that only a few of us can be privileged to serve in active military service. Many others, through age, physical incapacity or more important functions working toward the defeat of the enemy, will be accorded the greatest opportunity to serve their country by fighting at home. These can and must serve in other ways. Those who go to the front must be clothed, armed, fed, transported from place to place, treated when ill or wounded, and their dependents must be cared for. For each one of us who goes to the front, many others at home and women—must remain behind and labor wholeheartedly to supply what those who fight most need."

"For these reasons I call your attention to the fact that I shall shortly issue a proclamation announcing the taking of the state military census and calling upon all residents of the state of New York to labor just as willingly, just as patriotically, in the other channels which make for successful warfare."

"Our people, I know, are more than willing to serve where their service shall most count. By co-operating now with the constituted authorities in taking the census, in effecting the sale of the Liberty Bonds, in recruiting the troops, our citizens can render invaluable service and our state can help in the great cause to which the United States of America is irrevocably pledged."

The Story of His Life.

The evening services in the Fair Street Reformed Church will be dispensed with tomorrow evening in order that the members of the church may attend the union services at the Delaware Avenue Tabernacle. Frank E. Howard will address the meeting at the tabernacle. In the morning Mr. Howard will speak in the Fair Street Reformed Church. He has made an engagement to talk in Middletown in the afternoon and will return to Kingston in the evening where he will tell of his life in prison. This is the first time the people of Kingston have been given an opportunity to hear the story of his downfall. His usual talks are along temperance lines but the topic Sunday evening will deal with his life in prison, following a conviction for forgery.

Golden Anniversary.

Tomorrow the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Port Chester, N. Y., the Rev. A. C. Blunk, pastor, is to celebrate its golden anniversary. At the noon service the Rev. A. Schmidt, who was pastor of the church thirty years ago, will deliver the jubilee sermon. The morning service at the Spring Street German Lutheran Church will be omitted. At the English evening service, which will begin at 7:45 o'clock, the newly confirmed children will receive their confirmation certificates. The subject of the sermon will be, "Some Wise Counsels." Members and friends are cordially invited to attend this service.

ENGINEERS NOW IN ACTIVE SERVICE

Secretary Baker Orders Out Nine Regiments, Including New York—Four Are Now at War Strength.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 2.—The nine engineer corps regiments, authorized for immediate service in France, were today ordered into active service by Secretary of War Baker.

Four of the regiments are recruited up to full war strength. They will be ordered to training camps immediately. Five other regiments that have not yet reached war strength will be recruited up to the required number after their training has been begun.

The regiments now at war strength are those that were organized in New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Detroit.

Of the regiments not yet at war strength the Philadelphia regiment has the highest number of recruits—7,547. San Francisco has 5,447; St. Louis, 5,447; Boston, 4,238. The Atlanta regiment total has not been reported to the war department for several days.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 2.—The most prominent feature of the trading at the opening of the stock market today was the strength in stocks and corporations holding properties in Mexico. American Smelting continued in persistent demand, moving up one point to 111½, and Mexican Petroleum made an advance of 2½ points to 99¼. U. S. Steel Common showed strength in the first few minutes, advancing ¼ to 131¼. From this price it reacted to 130¼, and then rallied to 130¾. Anaconda opened down ¼ at 84½, but was in good demand and had a quick advance to 85½. Inspiration advanced from 63½ to 64½. Kennecott ½ to 43½. The railroad stocks were quiet and yielded fractionally after the opening transactions. At the end of the first fifteen minutes the leading industrials showed substantial strength. American Smelting was then above 112.

The final tone was weak. Nearly everything in which there was speculative interest sustained substantial losses in the last half hour. Steel Common sold down to 128½ under pressure from some important sources. St. Paul dropped over three points to 72½, and Union Pacific yielded to 135. Mexican Petroleum after reaching a high of 101½, reacted to 100½ and again rallied to 101. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds weak.

Doings of the Van Loons

TRUE, this country is in a state of war, but business must go on more briskly than ever. There is not now sufficient reason for the splendid American spirit of enterprise that has been a distinguishing trait of this nation to begin oozing out at our finger tips. The gait of the country should not change, because there is no necessity for change—because any slowing down at this time would greatly hinder our success in the conflict in which we've become involved.

Unreasonable economy should have no more place now in the daily program of the American people than profligate waste. The one can be quite as harmful as the other. Therefore sound your horn—throw in your clutch—drive right ahead and keep handy in your home a case of

HASBROUCK AVE. HAS TO WAIT

B. P. W. Rescinds Contract for Repairs of That Street for Various Reasons—Pearl and Cornell Streets to Have Attention—Other Matters.

After considerable discussion the board of public works on Friday afternoon rescinded the contract for repairs to Hasbrouck avenue which had been awarded to S. B. Van Wageningen, Inc., of this city, and asked Mr. Van Wageningen, who was present at the regular monthly meeting, to submit bids as to the cost of repairing Cornell and Pearl streets at the earliest possible moment. The two latter streets will be repaired this year, but Hasbrouck avenue will have to wait until next year. It was brought out in the discussion that a new grade will have to be laid on Hasbrouck avenue which will necessitate the trolley road being run through Lindley's woods, and asked that the street be repaired. The matter was referred to the street committee, street superintendent and city engineer. It was brought out that it was a question as to whether the city had ever made any repairs to the street.

Wynkoop Place Repairs.
C. Augustus Raschke and P. H. Carey of the consistory of the Reformed Church of the Comforter on Wynkoop Place were at the meeting and called attention to the impassable condition of the hill on that street and asked that repairs be made. The Rev. W. F. Stowe, pastor of the church, was out of town and so unable to attend the meeting, but wrote to the board asking that repairs be made.

Commissioner Tammany said he was in favor of placing the hill in a passable condition and made a motion to that effect, which was adopted.

Troubles of Getting Stone.
R. P. Chidsey of the Kingston Granite Tub Works, which has contracted to supply the city with crushed stone from its Wilbur avenue quarry for 90 cents a yard, was present and explained that the reason why the concern had been unable to furnish as much stone as desired the early part of this season was due to labor and other troubles at the quarry, which had been remedied. Superintendent Van Keuren said the concern had not been able to supply him with No. 4 stone as required and he had been forced to use No. 3 stone in repairing streets this year, and that No. 4 stone was better for that purpose.

There seemed to have been some misunderstanding for Mr. Chidsey said his man had informed him that the city had wanted only No. 3 stone and not No. 4 stone.

It was arranged that the street department was to keep Mr. Chidsey informed as far as practicable from day to day as to the amount and kind of stone needed.

Trees Were Examined.
Commissioner Burgevin said he had investigated the complaint made by Mr. Zeck regarding the two maple trees on West Union street in front of the Grimes property and was not in favor of having them taken down as they were in good condition.

He also reported that a tree on Broadway opposite Staples street was in a dangerous condition, and the property owner will be notified to take it down.

Trench Digging Ordinance.
City Engineer Codwise submitted a proposed ordinance regulating the digging of trenches in the city streets making it a misdemeanor for any one to dig a street without first receiving permission from the board. The ordinance was referred to the committee on laws and rules and will later be brought up for adoption.

Cornell Street Sewers.
Clerk Linson reported the cost of constructing the sanitary sewer on Cornell street as $1,579.12, and the storm water sewer on same street as $2,959.82. The board took the necessary action to have the costs paid.

Hurley Ave. Detour.
City Engineer Codwise called attention to the fact that he had tried to arrange with Mr. Waterman to lay out a detour on Hurley avenue through the Waterman property which would make it more convenient for those going and coming from Hurley. In order to get in the city they now have to go by way of Lucas avenue owing to the Hurley avenue repairs. He said Mr. Waterman thought he should be paid $50 for possible damage to his crops on land to be used for proposed detour. The matter was referred to Mayor Canfield and the city engineer to take action.

Supervised Play.
Mr. Taylor of the International Playground Association was present and called attention to the fact that under the new education law the education board would have to employ a man to supervise the athletics at the schools and he proposed that the B. P. W. unite with education board and employ this man all the year round instead of just for the period of the school year and outlined his ideas of using the city parks for supervised play.

Routine Matters.
A large number of routine matters also came up for action, before the board finally took an adjournment at a late hour that afternoon.

MILTON.
Milton, June 2.—At the graduation exercises held in the First Presbyterian Church, Newburgh, last Wednesday evening, at which time Miss Col. H. Decorations Day of 1917 at Woolsey Hall will long be remembered. The hall was filled with a patriotic assembly. Attorney Eckert of Kingston delivered a remarkably fine address in a most hearty manner, preceded by a prayer offered by the Rev. W. W. Voight, pastor of the M. E. Church. The Marlborough Band delighted every one with their inspiring music. Pupils of Districts No. 1 and No. 2 exhibited remarkably in patriotic drills. Both did exceptionally well. People of the community who failed to be present certainly missed a very fine display. Of course, Veteran Wyma was heard. This year he recited an Irish poem which brought forth much laughter and applause. The Rev. George Allan was expected to address the assembly but owing to his having spoken in Highland that morning, was unable to be present.

Miss L. Castano, the daughter of the Hon. Deet. Castano, of New York city, and niece of Joseph Brown, arrived in Milton last week end.

On the 26th instant a daughter, Grace Melissa, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Woolsey.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The little word, the little smile. The little song you know. These make the candle all the while. And we must keep it glowing. And we may think its trembling light Unnoticed by all eyes— But there is greater dark of night When that lone candle dies.

A GROUP OF SIMPLE SALADS.

Place boards over places where the dandelions are thick and as soon as it is warm in the spring they will grow and be perfectly white, as they are growing in the dark. Such dandelions are especially tender and may be served uncooked with a little shredded onion and French dressing.

Egg Pickle and Rice Salad.—Arrange cold-boiled rice in nests of lettuce leaves and fill with the following mixture. Put hard-cooked eggs and sour pickles through a meat grinder and mix with stiff mayonnaise until it forms a thick paste. Shape and place in the nest. Any boiled dressing may be used in place of the mayonnaise if preferred. Little green onions sliced, radishes, sliced unpeeled, and a few fringes of celery, served with French dressing on hearts of lettuce makes a very good salad.

Celery Salad.—Thicken a cupful of scalding milk with a tablespoonful of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold milk. Mix together one beaten egg, one teaspoonful of salt, and two of sugar, one-half a teaspoonful of dry mustard and a dash of cayenne pepper; pour slowly into the hot milk, stirring constantly. When smooth, remove from the fire and add two tablespoonfuls each of vinegar and salad oil. Mix well, and when cold pour over celery cut in small pieces.

Surprise Salad.—Arrange diced pineapple on lettuce leaves and in the center put a few shredded shrimps. Around this put a mixture of chopped apple and celery mixed with mayonnaise thinned with pineapple juice. Garnish with maraschino cherries and top with mayonnaise.

Wilted Lettuce.—Wash and drain two heads of lettuce. In a saucepan put one cupful of vinegar, one cupful of sweet milk and one egg well beaten. When it begins to boil pour it over the lettuce, cover and set back on the stove until the lettuce is wilted. Season with salt and pepper and butter or ham or bacon fat.

Reason for Mosquitoes.
Now, even the most foolish optimist would scarcely venture to claim that the transmission of disease and suffering to humanity is a "beneficial purpose." If the mosquito has a beneficial purpose it can be no other than to serve as a chastening influence upon the lives of men. As fleas exist only to keep dogs from forgetting that they are dogs, so mosquitoes may be designed by nature to induce a proper humility in mankind and also to impress upon the race the tremendous importance of trifles.

Mushrooms Go to Waste.

Mushrooms are allowed to go to waste in enormous quantities every year, but in part this is an account of the grave risks involved in the selection of edible varieties from among the poisonous kinds that grow in woods and fields. If everyone were able to discriminate with certainty and precision between the safe and unsafe mushrooms that nature sows profusely about the country uncultivated, thousands of tons of good food might be added to the supplies already possessed.

PRECISE REPLIES DESIRED BY STATE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., June 2.—Some newspapers have poked fun at the state census question blanks, charging that the questions overlapped one another to a great extent. It was claimed that this was especially true of the so-called "occupational" questions, but the state census headquarters at Albany has just issued an instruction sheet for answering the questions which shows how one question helps the next and how necessary each is if the state is to get the precise information it wants regarding the capabilities of its citizens.

Instead of asking "what do you do," the census enumerators will have nearly a score of questions to put to those between the ages of sixteen and fifty who must answer the census questions. By tabulating the answers to these questions the state authorities will know not only that a man is a machinist or laborer, but exactly what branch of the work he is most proficient at and what he could do for his country if the necessity arose.

The questions and instructions for answering them are as follows:

Do you hold any public office or position under the National or State Government?

Answer either "Yes" or "No." Answer "Yes" only if you receive your compensation from the State or National Government. Answer "No" if you receive your compensation from a county, city, town or village.

(a) If so, what?

Give exactly the position held, as "Sheriff of Hudson County" or "U. S. Customs Inspector" or "Elevator Man, State Capitol." If you answered preceding question, "No," draw a line through space provided for answer.

In what industry or business are you engaged?

Specify precisely, say "Shoe Manufacturing," or "Electric Machinery Manufacturing," do not say "Manufacturing," say "Dairy Farming," or "Stock Raising," do not say "Farming," say "Electric Street Railways," do not say "Transportation," say "Woolen Goods Manufacturing," do not say "Textile Manufacturing," say "Slaughter House," or "Fruit Canning," do not say "Food Products," say "Retail Cigar Store," or "Wholesale Dry Goods," do not say "Merchandise business."

If employed in domestic service, say "Domestic Service." If employed by County, City, Town or Village, specify precisely as "New York City Comptroller's Office," "Albany Fire Department." If you have a profession, are retired or have no occupation, answer "None." If you have a trade, give the industry or business in which you apply your trade. If you have answered "Yes" to question 18, draw a line through space provided for answer.

(a) In what capacity or position? Specify precisely, as "Proprietor," "Vice President," "Manager," "Salesman," "Machinist," "Farm hand," "Day Laborer," "Railroad Freight Trainman," "Mail Carrier," "Bricklayer," "Cook," "Policeman," "Bookkeeper," "File Clerk." Do not give a vague or general answer. If you have answered "none" to preceding question draw a line through space provided for answer.

(b) Exactly what work do you do? Specify precisely as "Typewriting," "Operate a telegraph instrument," "Operate a lathe," "Drive a delivery wagon," "Run an elevator," "Do general farm work." If you have answered "None" to question 19, draw a line through space provided for answer.

Have you a trade or profession? Answer either "Yes" or "No."

(a) If so, what is it? Specify precisely as "Carpenter," "Tailor," "Plumber," "Machinist," "Printer," "Lawyer," "Doctor," "Clerkman." If you have answered "No" to previous questions, draw a line through space provided for answer.

(b) If not, what work do you do for a living? If you have answered "None" to question 19 and "No" to question 20, give details here of what you do for a living. If retired, say "Retired." If you have already given full details regarding your occupation in answering questions 19 and 20, draw a line through space provided for answer.

In what other kind of work have you had most experience? Answer this question with as much detail as you answered questions 19 and 20. If you have always been engaged in the same line of business, trade or profession, draw a line through space provided for answer.

Are you particularly skillful in any line of mechanical work? Answer either "Yes" or "No." (a) If so, what line? Specify precisely. If you answered "No" to question 22, draw a line through space provided for answer.

Are you in business for yourself? Answer either "Yes" or "No." If you are a member of partnership, answer "Yes." If you are drawing a salary or commission, or work for wages, answer "No."

If not, what is the name of your present employer?

Give name of corporation, partnership or individual employing you. If employed by county, city, town or village, give name of same and of department.

(a) What is your employer's business?

Specify precisely. If your employer is not in business answer "None." (b) What is your employer's business address? Give correct mail address. If you work at a branch office or shop, give correct mail address of such branch office or shop.

GUARD TO FRANCE IN AUGUST

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 2.—Five divisions of the National Guard, approximately 125,000 men, will be sent to France by the end of August.

Present plans of the general staff of the war department, it was learned today, call for the dispatch of this body of National Guardsmen as soon as the calling out of the Guards is complete. The Guards will be called out in three increments, the first July 15 and the last August 5.

When the Guards have all been called out and mobilized they will be sent to France as soon as transportation facilities are available.

Don't Squal—Pay!

(By Stewart Edward White of the Vigilantes.)

If, when the luck of conscription drafted a man into service, he were to raise a howl because his neighbors, John Smith and John Robinson, were also drafted, what would you be thinking of him? If in addition he belonged to one of the pleasure-giving professions or arts, produced nothing essential to the nation at war, and would generally be considered a luxury, would not your opinion gain in strength? If you, yourself, were to be chosen by the lot to which we must all subject ourselves, would you waste time looking about you to see who had been better favored, or would you accept your duty cheerfully as a thing to be rendered? In other words, are you going to do it yourself, or are you going to "let George do it?" I think with nine hundred and ninety-nine out of a thousand Americans the answer would not be in the slightest doubt.

Yet it is none the less true that we are about to hear the squeals, wails and roars from those on whom the burden of taxation shall fall. Somebody has to pay these war bills. The best wisdom of the country will try to equalize the burden. Luxuries, amusements and the unnecessary will be taxed more heavily than other things. Income above a certain amount and excess profits should be levied upon almost to the confiscation point. That is logical and reasonable. Yet each one of the special interests will hire lawyers and raise the voice of lamentation to the heavens in order to impress upon lawmakers the idea that George—some other George—should do it.

Last night at a vaudeville performance I saw a motion picture of some sort of convention of moving picture people assembling to protest against "a vicious and unjust tax on moving picture amusements." The men as they approached the camera smiled and waved their hats and looked generally pleased at having their features perpetuated. It can well be understood that a certain class of motion picture men would squal were you to touch his pocketbook for any purpose whatsoever, but it is hardly conceivable that he would care to perpetuate himself in the act of so doing. Motion pictures represent very well the type of thing that should bear the first burden of taxation. And the attempt to exempt the moving picture audience through the wide publicity to be gained by the screen is in itself "vicious and unjust."

These few remarks apply to everything of the sort, including the magazine and newspaper tax. Every writer makes his living from that source, but the principle is exactly the same in his case. It is to be hoped that the country is not going to be treated to the disgraceful spectacle of each one of us sitting on our financial hind legs and howling for a mythical George to come and do it for us.

Four Cases of Measles.

Another case of measles was reported to the board of health today. This makes four cases so far reported in this city.

LIBERTY BONDS ON ANY TERMS

The most liberal terms which have yet been announced locally for subscriptions to the Liberty bonds were decided on by the board of directors of the Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association at their regular meeting Friday night.

Under an amendment to the law governing Savings and Loan Associations, passed by the last legislature, such associations were enabled to purchase Liberty Bonds for members or others, on such terms as they desired.

The directors of the Kingston Association decided to receive subscriptions for bonds and to buy bonds for members or others desiring to purchase them, the bonds to be paid for in installments, the installments to be in any amount and at any time. All that the trustees expect is that the purchaser will pay for the bonds, but no limitations were made regarding the time or amount of payments. This action ought to increase considerably the purchase of bonds.

COOK HIT THE SPRINGS.

That's Why He Looks Like a Trench War Survivor.

Thursday afternoon while walking along the platform at the West Shore ex-Assemblyman Andrew J. Cook, one of the tallest men in Kingston, met with a disaster such as comes to every man of unusual height at frequent intervals. One of the hand trucks had been loaded with outgoing freight and on top was a set of bed springs, with the ends projecting over the end of the truck. Any man of ordinary height would have safely passed underneath but not Mr. Cook. Being engaged in conversation Mr. Cook walked along the platform and struck his head against the sharp projection, inflicting a laceration over the eye and cutting his nose. The cut on his nose required a liberal piece of adhesive tape to cover it and the bruise on his forehead an application of liniment.

FIVE-MINUTE TALKS BY NATIONAL LEADERS.

JOHN J. LENTZ.
By John J. Lentz.

Former Congressman from Ohio. Society and government have fought their way step by step to a free press, free school, free speech and a free pulpit, knowing that all four of these agencies are necessary to promote and procure a correct public opinion.

We live in an age that is cursed with the speed craze in forming opinions as well as driving automobiles. Shallow pates come to a conclusion on a few facts.

Opinions of today may be as far wrong as were those of the past. Half a century ago public opinion on opposite sides of the Mason and Dixon line justified a civil war, in which hundreds of thousands of men murdered each other. Today public opinion on either side would brand a man a traitor who would suggest that the controversy over states' rights be opened up again.

Universal education, through a free press, free school, free speech and a free pulpit is enriching and ennobling the average mind and equipping it to practice the deliberations of a great judicial tribunal and attain a more wholesome and righteous public opinion.

We now have a world-wide war demonstrating that the rulers of all these nations have not taken their own prayers seriously, or, if they have, it demonstrates the inefficacy of prayer and the impotency of deity.

Silently, persistently, and to most men, unconsciously, there are three forces at work which will kill the war germ—prohibition, suffrage and insurance. War, prohibition and equal suffrage will hold their places on the first page for a short time and then all three will become relics on the junk heap of a barbarous age. There will be no more tyranny of war, no more diseases and death due to alcohol; no more serfdom for women.

To Grow Cannery Munitions.

Austin Merritt of Highland announces the growing of vegetables on a large scale for cannery purposes this year. About 300,000 tomato plants will be set out, and a large acreage of beans. It is the plan to have about 110 acres planted to furnish vegetables for canning.

TRUE, this country is in a state of war, but business must go on more briskly than ever. There is not now sufficient reason for the splendid American spirit of enterprise that has been a distinguishing trait of this nation to begin oozing out at our finger tips. The gait of the country should not change, because there is no necessity for change—because any slowing down at this time would greatly hinder our success in the conflict in which we've become involved.

Unreasoning economy should have no more place now in the daily program of the American people than profligate waste. The one can be quite as harmful as the other. Therefore sound your horn—throw in your clutch—drive right ahead and keep handy in your home a case of

HASBROUCK AVE. HAS TO WAIT

B. P. W. Rescinds Contract for Repairs of That Street for Various Reasons—Pearl and Cornell Streets to Have Attention—Other Matters.

After considerable discussion the board of public works on Friday afternoon rescinded the contract for repairs to Hasbrouck avenue which had been awarded to S. D. Van Wageningen, Inc., of this city, and asked Mr. Van Wageningen, who was present at the regular monthly meeting, to submit bids as to the cost of repairing Cornell and Pearl streets at the earliest possible moment. The two latter streets will be repaired this year, but Hasbrouck avenue will have to wait until next year. It was brought out in the discussion that a new grade will have to be laid on Hasbrouck avenue which will necessitate the trolley road following its tracks. The trolley road is unable to get any steel rails, except "T" rails, at the present time, and the board did not care to have "T" rails laid on that avenue.

Terry Brothers, the back manufacturer, wrote calling the attention of the board to Lorain avenue, which runs through Lindley's woods, and asked that the street be repaired. The matter was referred to the street committee, street superintendent and city engineer. It was brought out that it was a question as to whether the city had ever made any repairs to the street.

Wynkoop Place Repairs.
C. Augustus Raschke and P. H. Carey of the conservatory of the Reformed Church of the Comforter on Wynkoop Place were present at the meeting and asked attention to the impassable condition of the hill on that street, and asked that repairs be made. The Rev. W. F. Stowe, pastor of the church, was out of town and so unable to attend the meeting, but wrote to the board asking that repairs be made.

Commissioner Tammany said he was in favor of placing the hill in a passable condition and made a motion to that effect, which was adopted.

Troubles of Getting Stone.
R. F. Childsey of the Kingston Granite Pub Works, which has contracted to supply the city with crushed stone from its Wilbur avenue quarry for 99 cents a yard, was present and explained that the reason why the concern had been unable to furnish as much stone as desired the last part of this season was due to labor and other troubles at the quarry, which had been remedied.

Superintendent Van Kuren said the concern had not been able to supply him with No. 4 stone as required and he had been forced to use No. 3 stone in repairing streets this year, and that No. 4 stone was better for that purpose.

There seemed to have been some misunderstanding for Mr. Childsey said his man had informed him that the city had wanted only No. 3 stone and not No. 4 stone.

It was arranged that the street department was to keep Mr. Childsey informed as far as practicable from day to day as to the amount and kind of stone needed.

Trees Were Examined.
Commissioner Burgevin said he had investigated the complaint made by Mr. Zeeh regarding the two maple trees on West Union street in front of the Grimes property and was not in favor of having them taken down as they were in good condition.

Trench Digging Ordinance.
City Engineer Codwise submitted a proposed ordinance regulating the digging of trenches in the city streets making it a misdemeanor for any one to dig up a street without first receiving permission from the board. The ordinance was referred to the committee on laws and rules and will later be brought up for adoption.

Cornell Street Sewers.
Clerk Linson reported the cost of constructing the sanitary sewer on Cornell street as $1,573.12, and the storm water sewer on same street as $2,350.53. The board took the necessary action to have the costs paid.

to be used for proposed detour. The matter was referred to Mayor Canfield and the city engineer to take action.

Supervised Play.
Mr. Taylor of the International Playground Association was present and called attention to the fact that under the new education law the education board would have to employ a man to supervise the athletics at the schools and he proposed that the B. P. W. unite with education board and employ this man all the year round instead of just for the period of the school year and outlined his ideas of using the city parks for supervised play.

Routine Matters.
A large number of routine matters also came up for action, before the board finally took an adjournment at a late hour that afternoon.

Decoration Day of 1917 at Woolsey Hall will long be remembered. The hall was filled with a patriotic assembly. Attorney Eckert of Kingston delivered a remarkably fine address in a most hearty manner, preceded by a prayer offered by the Rev. W. W. Voight, pastor of the M. E. Church. The Marlborough Band delighted every one with their inspiring music. Pupils of Districts No. 1 and No. 2 exhibited remarkably in patriotic drills. Both did exceptionally well. People of the community who failed to be present certainly missed a very fine display. Of course, Veteran Wymys was heard. This year he recited an Irish poem which brought forth much laughter and applause. The Rev. George Allan was expected to address the assembly but owing to his having spoken in Highland that morning, was unable to be present.

Miss L. Castano, the daughter of the Hon. Dec. Castano, of New York City, and niece of Joseph Brown, arrived in Milton last week end.

In the 26th instant a daughter, Grace Melissa, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Woolsey.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The little word, the little smile, the little song you know—these make the candle all the while. That we must keep aglow. And we may think its trembling light unneeded by all eyes—But there is greater dark of night when that lone candle dies.

A GROUP OF SIMPLE SALADS.

Place boards over places where the dandelions are thick and as soon as it is warm in the spring they will grow and be perfectly white, as they are growing in the dark. Such dandelions are especially tender and may be served uncooked with a little shredded onion and French dressing.

Egg Pickle and Rice Salad.—Arrange cold-boiled rice in nests of lettuce leaves and fill with the following mixture. Put hard-cooked eggs and sour pickles through a meat grinder and mix with stiff mayonnaise until it forms a thick paste. Shape and place in the nest. Any boiled dressing may be used in place of the mayonnaise if preferred. Little green onions sliced, radishes, sliced unpeeled, and a few fringes of celery, served with French dressing on hearts of lettuce makes a very good salad.

Celery Salad.—Thicken a cupful of scalding milk with a tablespoonful of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold milk. Mix together one beaten egg, one teaspoonful of salt, and two of sugar, one-half a teaspoonful of dry mustard and a dash of cayenne pepper, pour slowly into the hot milk, stirring constantly. When smooth, remove from the fire and add two tablespoonfuls each of vinegar and salad oil. Mix well, and when cold pour over celery cut in small pieces.

Surprise Salad.—Arrange sliced pineapple on lettuce leaves and in the center put a few shredded shrimps. Around this put a mixture of chopped apple and celery mixed with mayonnaise thinned with pineapple juice. Garnish with maraschino cherries and top with mayonnaise.

Wilted Lettuce.—Wash and drain two heads of lettuce. In a saucepan put one cupful of vinegar, one cupful of sweet milk and one egg well beaten. When it begins to boil pour it over the lettuce, cover and set back on the stove until the lettuce is wilted. Season with salt and pepper and butter or ham or bacon fat.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 2, 1917.

"Pay-up Week" is the latest form of community service to which the Chamber of Commerce has dedicated its activities and, beginning with next Monday, every citizen is urged to square himself on the books of his creditors as expeditiously as possible. Other than a proclamation from the Mayor and due announcement by the Chamber of Commerce committee, there will be no ceremonies other than the simple handing over of legal tender and the giving of receipts therefor. It would be a fine thing if this occasion would serve as a lesson showing the evils of a system of extended credits. Today business is done on a very small margin of time among the big producers and wholesalers and the retailer, in failing to adopt rules in keeping with the system of the larger firms, has had to carry a heavy burden of accounts. The detail of book-keeping alone imposes a drain on the small retailer who must needs be a good collector, a shrewd purchaser and a skilled salesman if he is to remain in business very long. For business reverses in the retail trade, the long credits given to purchasers are almost always responsible. The ideal condition will come when the bulk of retailers are forced to adopt a thirty day limit on all accounts in order to meet the competition of chain stores which sell for cash only and experience nothing of the difficulty of slow collections or bad debts. Better still, a cash system would be even more effective and teach people true economy and the art of paying as they go. But we have not yet reached that happy stage in the conduct of retail business.

Considerable to-do is being made over the alleged conspiracies to obstruct registration next Tuesday, but to date these plots have not assumed any serious proportions. The New York newspapers made a great deal out of the arrest of a couple of college boys in New York who, with a young woman, engaged in circulating anti-conscription appeals. Such activity on the part of pacifists, parlor Socialists and sentimentalists of other schools are not taken seriously and, we believe, do not deserve the consideration they are receiving at the hands of the press. The secret service, too, seems to enjoy a little press-agenting in this connection and would have it appear that the country is facing dangerous disorders on Registration Day. Far more serious to our mind is the agitation being conducted from Washington, where copies of the Congressional Record, containing Speaker Clark's comparison of a conscript to a convict, are being sent broadcast through the mails. Speeches of Congressmen against conscription were perfectly proper at the time of delivery, but their circulation now by the Government smacks of irregularity somewhere in Washington officialdom. Beside such a practice, the petty efforts of a handful of college boys and girl theorists are insignificant.

The Kaiser's agents and the anarchists who are fighting compulsory military service know what they are about, for they are prepared to take the consequences of indiscreet action. But the pacifists, sentimentalists and slackers do not know what they are about, for they imagine that in the name of "freedom" they can safely resist the government of the United States and the will of the American people. The sooner they understand that they can not the better, for persistence will meet punishment as well as failure. Pacifists seeking to prevent the registration of young men of military age will find that there are threatening laws and the power to enforce them. Slackers who take "vows" not to register may find that even the hazards of the firing line are more welcome than the infamous "safety" of a jail with forced military service to follow. Compulsory military service is a fundamental law of this country as old as the country itself. Our law of 1792 required all adult males to enroll in the militia, to have muskets and ammunition, and to respond to the call for military service. The new law of selective conscription is merely a partial application of the old. The nation that can tax its citizens for the public support can call on the citizens themselves for the public defense. Those who would resist may well be reminded that the government's armed forces employed bullets to dispose of the rioters against conscription during the Civil War.

A Tongue Let Loose.

The famous lady was seriously ill—nervous trouble, the doctor said, and advised a nurse. But the old servant, who had been in the family for years, insisted on taking up the duties. She bored the doctor by nagging on the circumstances responsible for the attack. When the doctor could get a word in, he asked: "Has your mistress exhibited any signs of hysteria lately?" "Oh, no, sir!" was the unexpected reply. "She's never done any of them. They was all water colors, all of 'em, and real beauties, too."—Judge.

An Eye for Bargains.

"Sire," said the grand vizier of a certain Oriental potentate, "I suggest that in the future we buy our automobiles from the Western company that has offered us a thirty per cent discount."

"Good!" said the potentate. "Order a consignment of five hundred automobiles, assorted sizes, at once, and tell the company to send us a check for the discount by return mail, and the bill will be settled in due course."—The Youth's Companion.

A Time for Caution.

"Have you got a calendar for 1917?" asked the gentleman. "We might have such a thing among the odds and ends in the basement. But if you wish to make a gift to someone, surely a calendar for 1917."—Judge.

Spencer's Business School Notes.

To the large number of Spencer's graduates who have been placed in responsible business positions, the following have just recently been located with well known commercial houses:

Miss Agnes E. Remus, a graduate of the stenographic department of Spencer's school, has been sent to the North River Coal Company, Thomas street, this city, serving in the capacity of stenographer, typewriter and clerical assistant.

Randier Van de Mark of the shorthand department has accepted a good situation as office helper with the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company at Kerhonkson, N. Y.

Harry Crosby, a graduate of the business department of Spencer's school, has secured a permanent position as bookkeeper and clerical assistant with William D. Schwarzwaelder, manufacturer of furniture, Chichester, N. Y.

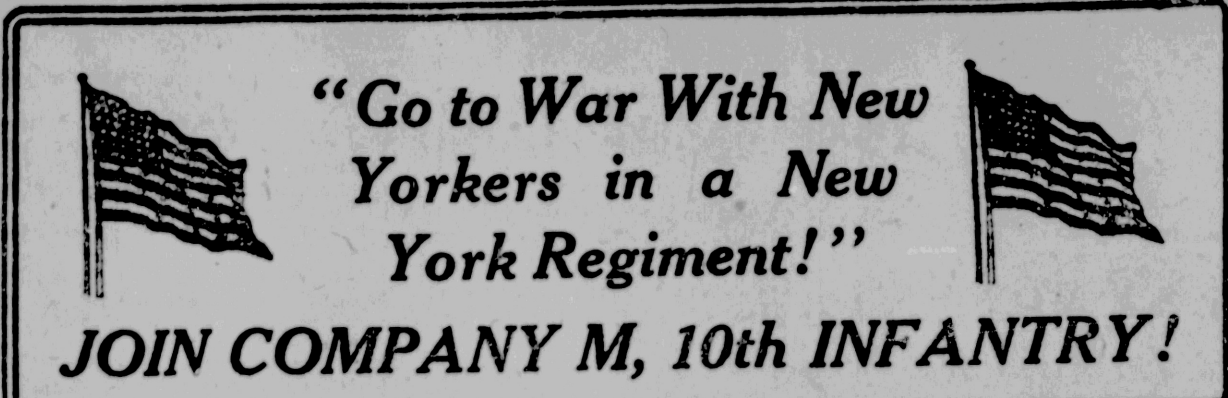

These are days of opportunities for ambitious, energetic young people, and they should lose no time in getting ready to occupy good business positions of which there are many at the present time. Spencer's special summer term offers special advantages to high school students and others who wish to secure quick preparations in the shortest possible time. The course of study is interesting, fascinating and profitable.

An Industrious People.

The Japanese people, both male and female, are remarkably industrious. They like sports. They seek enjoyment and recreation. They are artistic. They are religious. They study and learn. But they work hard and long hours. They are persistent, determined, and successful as individuals and collectively. They are wonderful copyists and assimilators. By nature, the men generally are gentlemen and the women ladies.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"How is it I never saw you read a novel of any kind?" asked the friend of the street corner politician as they sat on a bench at Kingston Point Park on Decoration Day afternoon.

"Some one has said that all life was a novel, both tragic and comic," replied the politician, "and I prefer to take my reading by sitting here and watching the people as they pass and attempting to sort them out and place them in the scheme of life."

"What do you mean?" queried the friend.

"Take that man for instance," said the politician pointing to a man passing by, "you would not think to look at him that last night he was driven from the house by his wife, would you?"

"How do you know?" asked the friend.

"Simply because I heard him tell his tribulations to another man as we were riding down on a trolley car," replied the politician.

"Oh," said the friend.

"It seems," continued the politician, "that he stayed out a little later than he intended playing cards with some friends and when he came home he found the door and windows locked and his wife refused to answer his knocks for admittance."

"The reason why she did," continued the politician, "was because he had promised to take her and the children to the movies, but had forgotten about it or else became more interested in the game he was playing."

"You can hardly blame her then," interrupted the friend.

"Then again," continued the politician, "look at that man just passing."

"I see him," replied the friend.

"It seems that he has just moved in a house which had not been occupied for years, and in cleaning out the garret he ran across an old iron bound chest that looked to be several hundred years old, and he managed to break into it, and what do you think he found?"

"A fortune in cash," replied the friend who had just finished reading a search for lost gold yarn before visiting the park.

"A lot of old newspaper clippings and some old theological books," replied the politician.

"And look at that man wearing a happy smile," added the politician pointing to yet another man passing by.

"What about him?" asked the friend.

"I overheard him tell another man," replied the politician, "that he had gone up in the garret and got down his summer suit which he had on and in going through the pockets had found a dollar bill."

"No wonder he is smiling," commented the friend.

"I tell you what," said the politician following a pause, "life is filled with all sorts of tribulations and it is not the rich people that are set apart to enjoy the adventures of life, for every one passing by us today has some romance, tragic or otherwise, tucked away in their system."

"That might be so at times," replied the friend.

"That life is full of little sorrows," continued the politician, "is proven by the experience of that girl that just passed us."

"You mean the one in the suit that bears the fashion mark of fifteen years ago?" asked the friend.

PRECISE REPLIES DESIRED BY STATE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., June 2.—Some newspapers have poked fun at the state census question blanks, charging that the questions overlapped one another to a great extent. It was claimed that this was especially true of the so-called "occupational" questions, but the state census headquarters at Albany has just issued an instruction sheet for answering the questions which shows how one question helps the next and how necessary each is if the state is to get the precise information it wants regarding the capabilities of its citizens.

Instead of asking "what do you do," the census enumerators will have nearly a score of questions to put to those between the ages of sixteen and fifty who must answer the census questions. By tabulating the answers to these questions the state authorities will know not only that a man is a machinist or laborer, but exactly what branch of the work he is most proficient at and what he could do for his country if the necessity arose.

The questions and instructions for answering them are as follows:

Do you hold any public office or position under the National or State Government?

Answer either "Yes" or "No." Answer "Yes" only if you receive your compensation from the State or National Government. Answer "No" if you receive your compensation from a county, city, town or village.

(a) If so, what?

Give exactly the position held, as "Sheriff of Hudson County" or "U. S. Customs Inspector" or "Elevator Man, State Capitol." If you answered preceding question, "No," draw a line through space provided for answer.

In what industry or business are you engaged?

Specify precisely, say "Shoe Manufacturing," or "Electric Machinery Manufacturing," do not say "Manufacturing," say "Dairy Farming" or "Stock Raising," do not say "Farming," say "Electric Street Railways," do not say "Transportation," say "Woolen Goods Manufacturing," do not say "Textile Manufacturing," say "Slaughter House" or "Fruit Canning," do not say "Food Products," say "Retail Cigar Store," or "Wholesale Dry Goods," do not say "Merchandise business."

If employed in domestic service, say "Domestic Service." If employed by County, City, Town or Village, specify precisely as "New York City" Comptroller's Office," "Albany Fire Department." If you have a profession, are retired or have no occupation, answer "None." If you have a trade, give the industry or business in which you apply your trade. If you have answered "Yes" to question 18, draw a line through space provided for answer.

(a) In what capacity or position? Specify precisely, as "Proprietor," "Vice President," "Manager," "Salesman," "Machinist," "Farm hand," "Day Laborer," "Railroad Freight Trainman," "Mail Carrier," "Blacksmith," "Cook," "Policeman," "Bookkeeper," "File Clerk." Do not give a vague or general answer. If you have answered "none" to preceding question draw a line through space provided for answer.

(b) Exactly what work do you do? Specify precisely as "Typewriting," "Operate a telegraph instrument," "an automatic lathe," "Drive a delivery wagon," "Run an elevator," "Do general farm work." If you have answered "None" to question 19, draw a line through space provided for answer.

Have you a trade or profession?

Answer either "Yes" or "No."

(a) If so, what is it?

Specify precisely as "Carpenter," "Tailor," "Plumber," "Machinist," "Printer," "Lawyer," "Doctor," "Clergyman." If you have answered "No" to previous questions, draw a line through space provided for answer.

(b) If not, what work do you do for a living?

If you have answered "None" to question 19 and "No" to question 20, give details here of what you do for a living. If retired, say "Retired." If you have already given full details regarding your occupation in answering questions 19 and 20, draw a line through space provided for answer.

In what other kind of work have you had most experience?

Answer this question with as much detail as you answered questions 19 and 20. If you have always been engaged in the same line of business, trade or profession, draw a line through space provided for answer.

Are you particularly skillful in any line of mechanical work?

Answer either "Yes" or "No."

(a) If so, what line?

Specify precisely. If you answered "No" to question 22, draw a line through space provided for answer.

Are you in business for yourself?

Answer either "Yes" or "No." If you are a member of partnership, answer "Yes." If you are drawing a salary or commission, or work for wages, answer "No."

If not, what is the name of your present employer?

Give name of corporation, partnership or individual employing you. If employed by county, city, town or village, give name of same and of department.

(a) What is your employer's business?

Specify precisely. If your employer is not in business answer "None."

(b) What is your employer's business address?

Give correct mail address. If you work at a branch office or shop, give correct mail address of such branch office or shop.

If you have answered "Yes" to question 23, draw a line through space provided for answers to questions 24 and 24 (a), and give your own business address under 24 (b).

Have you ever acted as agent or otherwise for any foreign country, manufacturer, dealer, or merchant?

Answer either "Yes" or "No." Answer "Yes" only if you have directly represented foreign connections.

GUARD TO FRANCE IN AUGUST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 2.—Five divisions of the National Guard, approximately 125,000 men, will be sent to France by the end of August.

Present plans of the general staff of the war department, it was learned today, call for the dispatch of this body of National Guardsmen as soon as the calling out of the guards is complete. The guards will be called out in three increments, the first July 15 and the last August 5.

When the guards have all been called out and mobilized they will be sent to France as soon as transportation facilities are available.

Don't Sympatize—Pay!

(By Stewart Edward White of the Vigilantes.)

If, when the luck of conscription drafted a man into service, he were to raise a howl because his neighbors, John Smith and John Robinson, were not also drafted, what would you think of him? If in addition he belonged to one of the pleasure-giving professions or arts, produced nothing essential to the nation at war, and would generally be considered a luxury, would not your opinion gain in strength? If you, yourself, were to be chosen by the lot to which we must all subject ourselves, would you waste time looking about you to see who had been better favored, or would you accept your duty cheerfully as a thing to be rendered? In other words, are you going to do it yourself, or are you going to let George do it? I think with nine hundred and ninety-nine out of a thousand Americans the answer would not be in the slightest doubt.

Yet it is none the less true that we are not to blame for the situation, and that those from whom the burden of taxation shall fall, somebody has to pay these war bills. The best wisdom of the country will try to equalize the burden. Lawyers, amusement and the unnecessary will be and should be taxed more heavily than other things. Income above a certain amount and excess profits should be levied upon almost to the confiscation point. That is logical and reasonable. Yet each one of the special interests will hire lawyers and raise the voice of lamentation upon lawmakers the idea that

George—some other George—should do it.

Last night at a vaudeville performance I saw a motion picture of some sort of convention of moving picture people assembling to protest against

"a vicious and unjust tax on moving picture amusements." The men as they approached the camera smiled and waved their hats and looked generally pleased at having their features perpetuated. It can well be understood that a certain class of motion picture men would sneer were you to touch his pocketbook for any purpose whatsoever, but it is hardly conceivable that he would care to perpetuate himself in the act of so doing. Motion pictures represented very well the type of thing that should bear the first burden of taxation. And the attempt to appeal to the moving picture audience through the wide publicity to be gained by the screen is in itself "vicious and unjust."

These few remarks apply to everything of the sort, including the magazine and newspaper tax. Every writer makes his living from that source, but the principle is exactly the same in his case. It is to be hoped that the country is not going to be treated to the disgraceful spectacle of each one of us sitting on our financial hind legs and howling for a mythical George to come and do it for us.

ed in this city.

LIBERTY BONDS ON ANY TERMS

The most liberal terms which have yet been announced locally for subscriptions to the Liberty bonds were decided on by the board of directors of the Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association at their regular meeting Friday night.

Under an amendment to the law governing Savings and Loan Associations, passed by the last legislature, such associations were enabled to purchase Liberty Bonds for members or others, on such terms as they desired.

The directors of the Kingston Association decided to receive subscriptions for bonds and to buy bonds for members or others desiring to purchase them, the bonds to be paid for in installments. The installments to be in any amount and at any time. All that the trustees expect is that the purchaser will pay for the bonds, but no limitations were made regarding the time or amount of payments. This action ought to increase considerably the purchase of bonds.

COOK HIT THE SPRINGS.

That's Why He Looks Like a Trench War Survivor.

Thursday afternoon while walking along the platform at the West Shore ex-Assemblyman Andrew J. Cook, one of the tallest men in Kingston, met with a disaster such as comes to every man of unusual height at frequent intervals. One of the hand trucks had been loaded with outgoing freight and on top was a set of bed springs, with the ends projecting over the end of the truck. Any man of ordinary height would have safely passed underneath but not Mr. Cook. Being engaged in conversation Mr. Cook walked along the platform and struck his head against the sharp projection, inflicting a gash over the eye and cutting his nose. The cut on his nose required a liberal piece of adhesive tape to cover it and the bruise on his forehead an application of liniment.

FIVE-MINUTE TALKS BY NATIONAL LEADERS.

JOHN J. LENTZ.

Bq John J. Lentz.

Former Congressman from Ohio. Society and government have fought their way step by step to a free press, free school, free speech and a free pulpit, knowing that all four of these agencies are necessary to promote and procure a correct public opinion.

We live in an age that is cursed with the speed craze in forming opinions as well as driving automobiles. Shallow pates come to a conclusion on a few facts.

Opinions of today may be as far wrong as were those of the past. Half a century ago public opinion on opposite sides of the Mason and Dixon line justified a civil war, in which hundreds of thousands of men murdered each other. Today public opinion on either side would brand a man a traitor who would suggest that the controversy over states rights be opened up again.

Universal education, through a free press, free school, free speech and a free pulpit is enriching and enlightening the average mind and equipping it to practice the deliberations of a great judicial tribunal and attain a more wholesome and righteous public opinion.

We now have a world-wide war demonstrating that the rulers of all these nations have not taken their own prayers seriously, or, if they have, it demonstrates the inefficacy of prayer and the impotency of deity.

Silently, persistently, and to most men, unconsciously, there are three forces at work which will kill the war germ—prohibition, suffrage and insurance. War, prohibition and equal suffrage will hold their places on the first page for a short time and then all three will become relics on the junk heap of a barbarous age. There will be no more tyranny of war, no more diseases and death due to alcohol, no more serfdom for women.

SHERIFF WILL AID REGISTRARS

Experts Will Make Personal Visits and Reports Will be Collected by Sheriff's Aides—School of Instruction Held.

In order to give the registrars throughout the county any information which they may want on registration day, Sheriff Shults has arranged the county into seven districts and men will be sent out from the sheriff's office at noon next Tuesday and during the afternoon they will visit every registration district in the county. These men sent out will be competent to give any information which the registrars may need in regard to questions which arise during the day. They will also show registrars how to make out their summary report if necessary.

After the polls close in the evening a representative from the sheriff's office will call at the country polls and collect the returns. This will save the registrars a trip to Kingston as under the law the returns must be sent in to the sheriff. Every registrar who finishes his work early in the evening is asked by the sheriff to wait at the polls until the man comes around and collects the returns. As there are a large number of registration districts in the county it may be an hour or two after closing time before the collector arrives at your polling place but the sheriff requests everyone to wait until the collector has gathered in the returns.

This applies only to the country districts, every district in the city will bring their returns directly to the sheriff as soon as completed.

A school for registrars will be held tonight at the court house at 8 o'clock for all registrars in the city and any other part of the county where information is desired. A school was held Friday evening at the sheriff's office when the registrars from the town of Saugerties were given information as to their work next Tuesday.

By abiding by the requests of the sheriff the work of the registrars will be greatly lessened on registration day and any question which arises will be disposed of when the representative calls at the polling place in the afternoon of registration day.

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. S. Kidd on Franklin street, Monday evening, when she was tendered a birthday surprise by her children. The table being nicely decorated for the occasion with carnations and roses and a large birthday cake, which was lighted with 54 candles, a delicious supper was served, after which selections were enjoyed on the Victrola. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. David Kidd, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kidd and son, Raymond; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Kidd, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kidd, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Roe, Arthur Kidd and Harold Kidd. At a late hour they left for their homes, wishing their mother many more happy birthdays.

Dancing Class in Morning.

Through an error it was stated in Friday evening's Freeman that Miss Della Boice would resume her classes in aesthetic dancing on Saturday evening. As these classes are for children, they will be held on Saturday morning at St. Mary's Hall, and not in the evening.

Smith-Freer.

The marriage of Edwin T. Smith and Miss Anna M. Freer, daughter of the late chief of police and Mrs. Isaac Freer, was solemnized in St. John's Church, Ellenville, Tuesday evening, the rector, Rev. Dr. Hobson performing the ceremony. The bride and groom were accompanied by the bride's sister, Miss Florence Freer and Arthur L. Peck. Owing to her father's recent death, it was a very quiet affair. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are domiciled in their already furnished home on North Main street. Many friends extend very hearty congratulations.

All members of the Ulster Garden Club, who have not already done so, are requested to notify the secretary, Miss Sarah Horton, at once, of their intentions regarding the meeting of the Garden Clubs of America to be held on June 12th, at 10:30 o'clock at the Cosmopolitan Club, New York city. All desiring to attend should so inform Miss Horton, as there is only a limited time within which acceptance may be sent to the national organization. The Ulster Garden Club members have also been invited to visit the gardens of Mr. Low of Poughkeepsie, any time before June 15th. Mr. Low has a most remarkable specimen of saxifrage now in bloom.

Towle-Rodgers.

Royal Lincoln Towle, of Kingston, N. Y., was married Wednesday morning, May 30, at 8 o'clock to Miss Emily Miriam Rodgers, daughter of John Rodgers, of 206 Union street, Pottsville, Pa. The wedding ceremony took place in the Chapel of Trinity Episcopal Church in that city, and was performed by the Rev. Howard W. Diller, rector of the church. Mrs. Towle is one of Pottsville's best known young women. Mr. Towle was assistant manager of the S. S. Kresge Company store there until six months ago, when he was promoted to the management of the Kingston store. The attendant for the bride was Miss Margaret Rodgers, her sister. At the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers and the bride's two brothers, Oliver and Robert. The young couple left for New York city after the ceremony, and after a honeymoon will make their home at Kingston.

Food Dealers Making Money.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, June 2.—That the soaring food prices in New York are being maintained solely by speculators who have stored the greatest quantities of foodstuffs in the history of the city was the declaration of Commissioner of Weights and Measures Joseph Hartigan, today. "There is no reason for the high prices," he said. "Big food dealers are making more money than ever before."

SPARKS FROM THE WAR ANVIL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Vienna, June 2.—For several days the Italians have been unable to make any appreciable progress, although they have been attacking with unabated fury, said a despatch from Ljubljana today. Prisoners captured by the Austro-Hungarians say that the Italians have suffered tremendous losses of life. English army officers, it is said, are helping direct the operations of the Italians.

London.—There were indications today that the British may extend their drive into West Flanders. The increasing artillery and raiding activity along the Franco-Belgian border is accepted by many military experts as the prelude to infantry assaults.

Copenhagen.—Within less than a month after its formation a split has occurred in the Russian coalition government. A despatch from Petrograd today said that other resignations are feared following the retirement of A. I. Konovaloff, minister of trade and commerce. M. Konovaloff resigned because of differences of opinion with the minister of labor, M. Skobeleff.

New York.—An American organization similar to the Russian Soldiers' and Workmen's Council, with an initial membership of 100,000, will be formed next week, according to a claim made today by Alexander Berkman, Berkman, who is a leader in the No. 100,000 League, activities of which are under the government eye, declared the chief aim of the new body will be opposition to conscription and ending the war with Germany.

Petrograd.—Arthur Henderson, member of the British government without portfolio, today began a series of conferences with members of the Russian government upon the labor situation. Mr. Henderson has just arrived from London. Albert Thomas, French minister of munitions, is at Jassy consulting with members of the Rumanian government on Rumania's shell supply.

Copenhagen.—Discontent in Germany over the inability of the German submarine fleet to live up to the claims made for it, and over the entrance of the United States in the war has visibly increased. Private advices from Berlin today said that German naval writers are attempting to explain the falling off in submarine sinkings by saying there are fewer ships to attack.

Paris.—Renewing their attacks north of the Aisne river the Germans assaulted the French positions at a number of points last night. All of the attacks were easily repulsed, the war office announced today.

Amsterdam.—Official admission of the sinking of six Swedish ships in the Gulf of Bothnia was made in Berlin today, says a despatch from that city.

London.—Two separate air raids were made by British airmen over Belgium yesterday instead of one as first reported. It was announced today that the German station at St. Denis Western was bombarded as well as Ostend and Zeebrugge.

Oscar in Clover.

The good effect at applying lime in large quantities as a fertilizer was never more plainly seen than in the case of the land of Ralph LeFevre, rented by August Tschirky on the state road at Bontecoe. There is a fine crop of clover growing on the 25 acre lot, always called the Big Meadow. The 15 acre lot called the Old Orchard has been sown with oats.—New Paltz Independent.

Eric Cancels Some Trains.

For the purpose of conserving fuel, equipment and supplies, certain Eric trains will be withdrawn on the summer schedule effective Sunday, June 10. This action is taken in accordance with the recommendation of the Council of National Defense as a war measure and the trains withdrawn are those which will cause the least inconvenience to the traveling public.

German Submarine Sunk.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Paris, June 2.—A big German submarine of the latest type has been sunk in the Adriatic off Cattaro by the French submarine Circe. Announcement of the sea fight and French victory was made here today. The Circe was attacked, but escaped. The German submarine was escorted by torpedo boats at the time.

Women Gamblers Arrested.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, June 2.—Sixteen women were today to be arraigned in police court on charges of gambling. They were arrested last night at the residence of Mrs. Stella Gray, who is charged with keeping a gambling place. There were no men in the house. Police claimed to have confiscated a complete gambling outfit.

Chicago Grain Market.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, June 2.—Wheat closed 7 to 8 cents higher; corn was 1 to 1 1/2 cents higher, and oats 1/4 cent higher.

Closing Prices.

Wheat.—July, 205; Sept., 191. Corn.—July, 147 1/4 to 147; Sept., 134 to 133 1/2; Dec., 96 1/2 to 96. Oats.—July, 58 1/2 to 58; Sept., 51 to 50 1/2; Dec., 52 1/2.

Child Not Unlike Adult.

The child in its disposition is not unlike an adult. Normally, both are happy and contented as long as they are feeling well, and the healthier they are the more responsive is their disposition. But if the head is dull and the brain is sluggish and the muscles have a tired feeling from a poor digestion, then both the adult and the child become irritable and quick tempered, doing little more than things which one wishes to do, unresponsive and discontented.

He Lacked Concentration.

Speaking of a man who was a failure because of his lack of concentration and his inability to know his own mind five minutes at a time, a captain of industry said he reminded him of a hunting dog he once owned:

"At sunrise the dog would start out on his own hook after deer. He would jump a buck and run him for miles. When the buck was on the point of exhaustion the hound's nostrils would catch the taint in the air where a fox had crossed the trail, and he would instantly decide that, after all, fox was what he had come for, and he would turn aside to pursue the fox. Perhaps an hour later, when the chase was growing warmer every minute, his keen nose would detect the presence of a rabbit, and he would go after the cottontail, with the inevitable result that by 4 o'clock in the afternoon that hound would be thirty or forty miles away from home in a swamp with a chipmunk tread!"—Saturday Evening Post.

George and His Legs.

Bit by bit the historical grubbers are digging out the truth about our immortal George. We have heretofore been told that he wore false teeth and that at Valley Forge he unblushingly deceived his ragged and despondent troops with the arrival of ample supplies of ammunition, which consisted of powder barrels filled with sand, and now a correspondent of the New York Sun declares that in the full length portraits of Washington by Stuart, of which there is one in the New York public library, the legs were not his own. "I have seen the letter from Stuart thanking the true owner for his kindness in providing a symmetrical foundation for the bust of the great president and presenting one of the smaller portraits in thanks for his kindness."

Free Speech.

An old negro woman had lived with a certain family in the south for many years. One day her mistress had occasion to reprimand her quite sharply for something that had gone wrong. The negro said nothing at the time, but a little later her voice could be heard in the kitchen in shrill vituperation of everything and everybody, with a rattling accompaniment of pans and kettles. So loud became the clamor and so vindictive the exclamations that Mrs. C. went hurriedly down to the kitchen.

"Why, Liza," she began in amazement, "who on earth are you talking to?" "I ain't talkin' to nobody," the old negro replied, "but I don't keer who in dis house hears me."—Harper's Magazine.

CREW OF U.S.S. RECRUIT.
U. S. S. RECRUIT "LAUNCHED" IN NEW YORK PARK.

Most important of the exercises held in New York city on Memorial Day was the "launching" of the U. S. S. "Recruit." The battle-gray landship, built in Union Square Park, was turned over to Rear Admiral Usher, commandant of the New York Navy Yard, by Mayor Mitchell. The "Recruit" is built of wood and was paid for by popular subscription. It is to serve as a recruiting headquarters for the navy and marine corps, which are not covered by the conscription law. The photograph shows members of the American Junior Naval and Marine Scout on board the wooden vessel.

GUTHRIE'S BODY ARRIVES.

GUTHRIE'S BODY BACK HOME FOR BURIAL.

Placing the casket bearing the body of the late Ambassador G. W. Guthrie on a gun carriage on the wharf at San Francisco, Ambassador Guthrie died suddenly at his post of duty in Tokio, and the remains were brought home for burial by the Japanese cruiser Azuma.

POVERTY OF WEALTH.

There Are Many, Many Things That Money Cannot Buy.

If you have wealth you can purchase a hundred outfits of wearing apparel, but you can only wear one at a time. Socrates never owned but one pair of shoes, but his name is immortal. If you have wealth you can purchase beautiful paintings and adorn your home with statues. That wouldn't bring you happiness. If you have wealth you can purchase furniture inlaid with gold and upholstered with fine fabrics. That doesn't mean contentment.

If you have wealth you can purchase a great park and erect a splendid mansion, but tradition tells us that there was a very happy man who lived in a tub and when the king came to see him and asked what he could desire from the king Diogenes replied, "That you would step from between me and the sun." If you have wealth you can possess an organ with golden pipes, but Beethoven composed his immortal symphonies on a cheap harpsichord. If you have wealth you can equip a luxurious studio, but Turner painted in a garret and mixed his colors in a broken teacup.

Money can purchase copies of Sir Joshua Reynolds, but God gives the sunset away free. Money can employ musicians to perform for a private concert, but the song of the lark in the tree and the music of children's laughter is for the millionaire and the poor man alike. Wealth cannot purchase the great things of life. It cannot buy a contented mind and a serene life. It cannot purchase goodness and beauty.—Dale H. Carnegie in Leslie's.

Arabs Not Much Changed.

The Arab is physically and intellectually as vile as he ever was, but superficially he is unrecognizable as his former self. In the early days of the Abbasid caliphate, not only was the Arab world prosperous, but we have records of an elaboration of government and a complexity of administration which would astonish those who are only acquainted with the social and political conditions under which Arabs live today.

Followed Instructions.

Ted's sister had a friend call on her. Ted rejected him by his nickname and was told that he must never shorten anyone's name. The next morning Ted came in from the poultry yard and said: "That gray duck eats all the corn because she has such a broad 'William'."

Timbrel Now the Tamborine.

The timbrel of the Bible was the instrument known today as the tamborine. It was used in early times by the Syrians of Padan-aram at their merry makings (Genesis 31:27).

DR. NOGUCHI.
NOTED JAPANESE SCIENTIST REPORTED ILL OF TYPHOID.

Dr. Hideo Noguchi, the famous Japanese scientist, noted the world over for his pathological research work, is reported to be seriously ill of typhoid fever at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York. He is being attended by Dr. Emmanuel Libmann, who cared for Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt during her recent serious illness. Dr. Noguchi is a member of the Department of Pathology and Bacteriology of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

Cromwell's Last Words.

Of the great Oliver, who brought Charles I to the scaffold, Thomas Carlyle has written a notable book, and in the fine description of the death scene Cromwell's last words are recorded. When, being restless, he was offered something to drink, he said: "It is not my design to drink or sleep, but my design is to make what haste I can to be gone."

Christening a Nation.

Anxious to enlarge the limited vocabulary of the children, a teacher asked what name was given to men who ate other human beings. "Savages" and "man-eaters" were the only words most of them could give. At length the eagerness of a bright-eyed boy indicated that he thought he had a better word. It was "Manchus!"

Inconsistency.

Do we realize the tremendous neutralizing power of even our habitual inconsistency? An inconsistency is like the sleeve of a careless schoolboy at his copybook; he smears and blots with his arm what he writes fair with his hand. It is the smeared page that the world looks at and judges us by, and not the care and pains with which we may originally have tried to reproduce in our lives the precepts of the Gospel.—Donald Sage Mackay.

No More Fairy Tales.

"Now the giant had a wonderful musical instrument which would cry out if anybody tried to steal it." "I don't see anything so wonderful about it. I think maybe we could arrange our graphophone to do that."

Pay up Week. Is the latest form of community service to which the Chamber of Commerce has dedicated its activities and beginning with next Monday every citizen is urged to square himself on the books of his creditors as expeditiously as possible. Other than a proclamation from the Mayor and due announcement by the Chamber of Commerce committee there will be no ceremonies other than the simple handing over of legal tender and the giving of receipts therefor. It would be a fine thing if this occasion were as a lesson showing the evils of a system of extended credits. Today business is done on a very small margin of time among the big producers and wholesalers and the retailer in failing to adopt rules in keeping with the system of the larger units, has had to carry a heavy burden of accounts. The detail of book-keeping alone shows a drain on the small retailer who must needs be a good collector, a shrewd purchaser and a skilled salesman if he is to remain in business very long. For business reverses in the retail trade the long credits given to purchasers are almost always responsible. The ideal condition will come when the bulk of retailers are forced to adopt a thirty day limit on all accounts in order to meet the competition of chain stores which sell for cash only and experience nothing of the difficulty of slow collections or bad debts. Better still a cash system would be even more effective and teach people true economy and the art of paying as they go. But we have not yet reached that happy state in the conduct of retail business.

Considerable to do is being made over the alleged conspiracy to obstruct registration next Tuesday but to date these plots have not assumed any serious proportions. The New York newspapers made a great deal out of the story.

Large hosts in New York who with a young woman engaged in circulating anti-conscriptor appeals. Such activity on the part of persons for Socialists and communists of other schools are not taken seriously and we believe do not deserve the consideration they are receiving at the hands of the press. The secret is that too many seem to enjoy a little press agitation in this connection and could have it appear that the country is facing dangerous disorders on Registration Day. But more serious to our mind is the agitation being conducted from Washington where copies of the Congressional Record containing Senator Clark's comparison of a conscript to a convict are being sent broadcast through the mails. Speeches of Congressmen must contain a word perfectly proper to the time it delivers. But its circulation now in the Government's hands of irregularity some where in Washington officialdom. Be it such a practice the pitiful efforts of a handful of college boys and girl theorists are in ignominious.

The Kaiser's agents and the anarchists who are fighting compulsory military service knew what they are about for they are interested to take the consequences of indifference. But the pacifists, sentimentalists and clerics do not know what they are about for they imagine that in the name of freedom they can resist the government of the United States and the will of the American people. The sooner they understand that they are not the better for persistence will meet punishment as well as failure. Pacifists seeking to prevent the registration of young men of military age will find that there are threatening laws and the power to enforce them. Slackers who take time not to register may find that even the hazards of the firing line are more welcome than the inhuman safety of a jail with forced military service to follow. Compulsory military service is a fundamental law of this country as old as the country itself. Our law of 1792 provided all adult males to enroll in militia to have muskets and a qualification and to respond to the call to military service. The new law of selective conscription is merely a partial application of the old law. A nation that can tax its citizens for the public service can call on its citizens themselves for the public defense. Those who would resist may well be reminded that the government's armed forces employed bullets to dispose of the rioters against conscription during the Civil War.

COMPANY M NEEDS SIXTY RECRUITS; WATCH INDICATOR

Rosedale Sends Her Quota to Kingston Unit of Tenth—Recruiting Office at Armory Open Every Evening Until 10 O'clock—Join Now and Push Indicator.

Recruiting for Company M, Tenth Regiment, is under way and eleven young men have responded to the call within the last two days. A big indicator, fashioned like a thermometer, was suspended on the Broadway side of the armory on Thursday night with the pointer at 79, the actual strength of the company at that time. Five recruits were received that evening and six on Friday, shooting the marker to above summer heat, and leaving only ten short of the 100 mark. Tonight it is hoped that enough young men will show up for examination at the armory to bring Company M to peace strength. Rosedale rallied to the front with five names this week, these being Harry D. Hinkley, Herbert Hinkley, Dewey Lawrence, Virgil DuBois, Harry Hornbeck. Others were from Kingston: John J. McAndrew, Raymond Short, Jr., Edward DuBois, Robert Hyland, William Marks, Henry Avnet, Charles O. Kelse, John Palisi, Achille Niccarto, Charles B. Maina, Aaron Kiersted, city and Joseph Smith, High Falls.

One way to avoid registration next Tuesday, the boys at the armory say, is to join Company M. Members of the militia to be called into the federal service are free from the duty imposed by registration.

Sixty men are needed by Company M and an earnest effort will be made to get them within the next few days. One name sends the indicator up a notch. Do your bit now.

GERMANS STOP BRITISH ADVANCE

By Telegraph to The Freeman. London, June 2.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, the German chief of staff, has reported to the Kaiser that the British offensive has been brought to a definite stop, according to a despatch from Berlin, via Amsterdam today.

The official communications of the past few days show that there has been a lull on that part of the western front held by the British.

Teach Children Thrift.
We Americans are notoriously the most thriftest of peoples. You have heard how much we throw away. We are prone to think of thrift as stinginess. We hate to hear about saving. Dorothy Canfield Fisher in her recent book, "Self Reliance," gives parents a strong word of warning. She says: "There is nothing in the fact of being children which need cut off our sons and daughters from a great deal of accurate information and considerable practical experience with the ins and outs of wise money spending. But there is a great deal in the fact of their being Americans which will shut them off from such information and experience unless parents make a very determined effort to see that they get the proper training for the whole spirit of our country and age is against us in the effort."

The City of the Dove.
When mighty Amru went to conquer Egypt he camped on the east bank of the Nile opposite Memphis, that great twenty mile long capital of mud bricks whose western verge was the pyramids and whose mud brick houses have all vanished. Amru crushed the Egyptians and came back to get his camp to move over and occupy Memphis. A dove had built in the folds near the top of his tent. Blood bathed Amru, the ruthless, would not let her be disturbed. A new city started about his tent. It grew northward along the Nile. It is today Cairo. Memphis is only a name.

Can You?
Here are a few things that you cannot do:
You cannot jot down the square root of two.
You cannot sneeze or yawn with your head under water.
You cannot stifle the number of buttons on your clothes.
You cannot dress an envelope by only looking at the paper in a mirror.
You cannot put your left foot and shoulder against a wall and then raise the other foot.
And yet you think you are clever!—London Answers.

That Was Different.
Mrs. Little—What a beautiful world it must have been when there were only Adam and Eve in it! There was nobody to say nasty things about them, Mrs. Little—But, then, they had nobody to talk about. Mrs. Little—Well, I guess, after all, the world has improved since their time.—Exchange.

Ahead of the Times.
"The trouble with my boy Josh is that he's always ahead of the times," remarked Farmer Courtesel.
"What has he done?"

SCHOOL SERVICE IN TIME OF WAR

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, June 2.—That the schools in New York State will be kept open twelve months in the year, is the prediction of Dr. Arthur D. Dean, supervising officer, vocational training bureau of the military training commission. Dr. Dean is of the opinion that this result will have been brought about within two years because of the European war.

"The schools of New York State will be the social working center for the working forces of cities, where pupils over twelve years of age will be given instruction for part of the school day; the remainder of the day they will be at the call of those who need nursing assistance if they are girls, while if they are boys they are likely to be employed at some war time mission designated by the state."

Prior to the enactment of the law providing for compulsory military training of all the boys in the State of New York, Dr. Dean had charge of the system of vocational training. Many of the innovations in school courses which now embrace vocational training, followed recommendations he made after having studied conditions thoroughly.

Dr. Dean says that the educators in this state have two important duties to perform; to teach those who have everything to practice self sacrifice and to instruct those who have nothing, perhaps not more than a low order of intelligence, how to come useful and to perform valuable service for their state and nation.

Dr. Dean, moreover, strikes rather a vigorous blow at the classics, for he holds that boys pupils who come under the provisions of universal military training, who have no further qualifications for valuable service than book learning of this character are only fitted to carry a gun.

He says that there are other ways of serving well than on the firing line and points out that boys may be educated from military training, both while attending school and at work, providing they are employed at some pursuit directly useful in defense. He cites those who are learning to be machinists, who are studying the question of the development of public works, those who are working in connection with the preservation of the natural resources of the state and those who are employed in factories where products directly related to munitions or articles necessary for warfare are turned out.

When the law was first enacted relative to military training, the step was deemed a far reaching one, but the state department of education went a step further, Dr. Dean says, by amending the law so as to provide for the military instruction of all boys of 16, 17 and 18, with the exception of those cited as being engaged in some calling identified in some way with preparedness.

In September the law providing for universal military training will go into effect and shortly thereafter the good effects will become apparent, is the declaration of Dr. Dean. "The development of boy power is a vitally important duty of educators in this state and its importance will soon be recognized by other states," is his declaration.

A HORRIBLE FORM OF DEATH IN WAR

Rip Baer, American Schoolboy, Tells of Being Buried Alive—A Thrilling Story of Fighting in France.

Paris, May 16.—(By mail to New York June 2).—The most horrible form of death that the great war has produced is burial alive by the explosion of a shell.

A high school boy of New York, whose parents were Egyptians, had the unpleasant, and almost fatal, experience of being buried alive by the dirt cast up by a bursting projectile and was interred for six hours before being rescued.

The young American soldier's life was saved just in the nick of time and he was carried off to an advanced dressing station screaming: "Cut my head off! Oh, God! Cut my head off!" His name is Rip Baer and he has been in the Foreign Legion of the French army since the outbreak of the war. In August, 1914, he was studying art and literature in Paris and enlisted the day after war was declared.

He had many thrilling experiences, but the greatest occurred at the opening of the present French offensive in Champagne.

Baer's company was sent across a heavy barrage fire to attack a strongly fortified salient. Shells were falling right and left.

"There were so many of them we stopped thinking about them," declared Baer, who is now in the American hospital at Neuilly. "All I remember is hearing one dreadful whistle and I said to myself 'I'm done for. That's me.' That was the last thing I remember."

Baer's comrades fell in the missing part of the story. A huge shell exploded about ten feet away from the American, throwing earth all over him. It was only through a miracle that no part of the steel struck him, but his friends were sure he was done for. Every sign of him had disappeared. It was only when a party of soldiers picking up the dead came along six hours later they discovered an arm sticking up through the dirt. They gave it a pull and found it was attached to a human body. They dug Baer out without any hope that he was alive, but they were mistaken. The American was suffering from shell shock and the tympanum in his right ear had burst but he still breathed faintly.

At the advanced dressing station Baer was informed that he would never hear again and was sent to the rear. The latest reports from the American hospital are that he will regain his hearing and will be entirely recovered within a month.

The strain of Oriental blood in Baer manifested itself in a card he sent to an American woman who frequently sent him packages of cigarettes. The card was written before the day of the attack "tomorrow," wrote Baer. "The battle will be glorious, but even more glorious will be the victory."

Baer was nearly deprived of his part in the victory by a wound he received three months before in fighting in the same sector. He had not entirely recovered when he was buried alive. Baer had been on duty in a first line trench and was eating his lunch when a shell exploded some distance from him. A fragment of the steel hit his canteen which he had swung around to the front, and drove it into his stomach with such force that a nasty gash was inflicted.

When he got back on duty Baer was assigned to a less perilous post back of the second line on telephone duty work, which he cordially hated. The news of the forthcoming attack was circulated and Baer asked the captain in charge to let him take part in it. The captain refused, declaring he was a good man for the present work he was doing and reminding him that he was lax in drill work.

Determined to take part, Baer picked a quarrel with the sergeant of his company, knowing that the punishment for such an offense was a period of duty on the first line where the firing is hottest. His strategy won, for he was taken into custody for fighting and sentenced to fifteen days in the first line trenches.

"Well," remarked Baer cheerfully, "if I got killed I won't have to serve the rest of my time."

But the young American had some compensation. In the early part of the attack, and before he was buried, Baer came upon a solitary German in a patch of woods through which his company was advancing. The German fired his rifle at Baer and, seeing he had missed, raised his arms crying "Comrade."

Baer was asked what followed. "Oh, I just shot him through the heart and left him," replied the American coolly. "He was a coward anyway. He wasn't even fit to be a German for the Germans fight very well."

Compare These Franklin Records with the Tire Mileage of Your Car

TIRE economy is an interesting subject to motorists these days. Mere claims no longer count. Special tests are discounted. The experienced motorist wants to know what the car he intends buying will do.

THIS kind of motorist, the experienced man, is interested in these Franklin tire records—because they are from Franklin owners themselves.

Four hundred and forty-four Franklin owners wrote the Franklin Automobile Company, personally, a few weeks ago, about their tire mileage.

The average of all the reports is 10,233 miles per set of tires. In numerous cases, individual averages reached 12,000 and 15,000 miles per set.

Probably you know some of these Franklin owners. These reports cover almost every state in the United States, representing all sorts of climate—all types of roads—from owners of both open and enclosed Franklins.

These are not unusual records. During the past four years the Franklin tire average was 10,188 miles per set—for all models.

Then They Ask—Why?

After noting these tire facts, the motorist owning a heavy car usually asks us:

Why does the Franklin, alone, give tire averages like this?

Because the Franklin is a scientifically constructed car. It weighs about a thousand pounds less than the average fine car.

The tires carry no excess dead weight—no superfluous burden to pound them.

Road bumps and driving strains are absorbed by the resiliency of the Franklin lightweight construction.

That's a story 15 years old—Scientific Light Weight; it started with the first Franklin Car.

And not another make of car has ever averaged the nationwide tire mileage records made by Franklin owners.

A personal inspection of the Franklin Car—its principles and construction—will convince you that 10,000 miles to a set of tires is only possible in the Franklin.

We invite you to make this inspection.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"How is it I never saw you read a novel of any kind?" asked the friend of the street corner politician as they sat on a bench at Kingston Point Park on Decoration Day afternoon.

"Some one has said that all life was a novel, both tragic and comic," replied the politician, "and I prefer to take my reading by sitting there and watching the people as they pass and attempting to sort them out and place them in the scheme of life."

"What do you mean?" queried the friend.

"Take that man for instance," said the politician pointing to a man passing by "you would not think to look at him that last night he was driven from the house by his wife, would you?"

"How do you know?" asked the friend.

"Simply because I heard him tell his tribulations to another man as we were riding down on a trolley car," replied the politician.

"Oh," said the friend.

"It seems," continued the politician "that he stayed out a little later than he intended playing cards with some friends and when he came home he found the door and window locked and his wife refused to answer his knocks for admittance."

The reason why she did," continued the politician "was because he had promised to take her and the children to the movies but had forgotten about it or else because he more interested in the game he was playing."

You can hardly blame her then interrupted the friend.

"Then again," continued the politician, "look at that man just past."

"I see him," replied the friend.

"It seems that he has just moved into a house which had not been occupied for years and in cleaning out the garret he ran across an old iron bound chest that looked to be several hundred years old, and he managed to break into it and what do you think he found?"

A fortune in cash," replied the friend who had just finished reading a search for lost gold mine before visiting the park.

A lot of old newspaper clippings and some old theological books," replied the politician.

"And look at that man wearing a happy smile," added the politician pointing to yet another man passing by.

"What about him?" asked the friend.

"I overheard him tell another man," replied the politician "that he had gone up in the garret and got down his summer suit which he had on and in going through the pockets had found a dollar bill."

No wonder he is smiling," commented the friend.

"I tell you what," said the politician, "a man who is just like me is filled with all sorts of tribulations and it is not the rich people that are happy but the poor people that are."

Life for every one passing by us to day has some romance tragic or comic tucked away in their system."

"That might be so at times," replied the friend.

"That life is full of little sorrows," continued the politician, "is proven by the experience of that girl that just passed us."

"You mean the one in the suit that bears the fashion mark of fifteen years ago?" asked the friend.

"If you knew her story you could not comment upon her costume so sarcastically," replied the politician.

"Why?" argued the friend.

"She had a date with a young man to spend the holiday on an excursion," replied the politician, "and he stood her up."

"Don't blame him after seeing her clothes," commented the friend.

"And that is all you can see," replied the politician, "for the night before Decoration Day she got out her best clothes and started to press them to have them ready for the excursion next day, and she was suddenly called away from her ironing to answer the door bell and when she returned she found she had forgotten to remove the hot iron from the clothes and had ruined them by burning a hole through them."

"That was too bad at that," interrupted the friend.

"That's why I like to sit here or anywhere there is a crowd," continued the politician "for I enjoy life more by trying to read the pages of life spread out before me by the passing crowds and to pick out some individual and try to read into her life the sorrows or the joys that lurk there."

"But you often get stung at that," argued the friend.

"Sure," agreed the politician, "but then all novels you read do not end as you think they should, do they?"

"No," replied the friend slowly.

TO SAY FIRST MASS IN POLISH CHURCH

The Rev. Stephen Rybacki, Ordained Today by Cardinal Farley, to Celebrate Mass in Church of the Immaculate Conception on Sunday.

Rev. Stephen Rybacki, who was ordained today at St. Patrick's Cathedral by his Eminence, John Cardinal Farley, to the holy priesthood, will say his first solemn mass at Immaculate Conception Church on Sunday, June 3, at 10:30 a. m. The edifying custom in the Catholic Church is that the solemnity of the first mass by a priest just ordained is displayed with gladness of heart and with grandeur of ceremony. Such festivity will the Immaculate Conception parish have on Sunday.

All the church societies will participate in the solemn procession which will go from the rectory to the church. There will be seminarians from St. Joseph's Seminary, Yonkers, N. Y., and the clergy who will assist the young celebrant at his first mass. The Children of Mary Society has presented a wreath of flowers which will be carried by four young ladies of the society and placed at the high altar. The Society of the Holy Rosary has presented a costly pillow, and the inscriptions of the name and date and place of the celebration of the first mass by Rev. Stephen Rybacki. The pillow will be carried in procession by little girls.

The sermon on the occasion will be delivered by the rector of the church, Rev. Francis Lesniowski. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the newly ordained priest will give his priestly blessing to all present at the church and each will receive a holy picture as remembrance of his first mass.

The solemn vespers will be said in the evening at 7:30 by the newly ordained priest.
Rev. Stephen Rybacki received his college studies in Polish Seminary at Orchard, Lake, Mich., while the courses of philosophy and theology he completed at St. Joseph's Seminary, Yonkers, N. Y. After a few days' vacation he will be appointed to his priestly duties in Trenton diocese by the Bishop of Trenton, Rt. Rev. James A. McPaul, D. D., LL. D.

Manhood's Election Day.
(By Wallace Irwin of the Vigilantes.)

You remember the anecdote of the belligerent person who, strolling along the waterfront, and beholding two amateur pugilists in a deadly clinch, rolled up his sleeves and inquired, "Is this a private fight, or can anybody get in?"
Well, in our state we are soon to proclaim a time which will prove to everybody in America that we are not ensnared in a private fight. In a word, we are about to take a military census, which everybody can, will and must "get in." It's going to be a man size job, a job which, in patriotic appeal and call to citizens, will dwarf the biggest election day we have ever known. It will be a simple matter for you. You will be expected to answer a few questions relating to your qualifications to serve your country in this time of need.

Now, when the governor and the president are getting ready for this big drive on autocracy let's not forget how necessary it is for each one of us to help. Let's not make a simple job complex. Let's make service a noble word, as it ought to be. Let's make a resolve that each one of us who is called will show up promptly, willing and anxious to answer all questions intelligently and—above all else—honestly. Don't let's leave our old hours between now and then thinking up excuses why we shouldn't wear the uniform which it is a privilege and a glory for any man to wear. Your visit to the poll of patriotism may lead (if you happen to be a little better endowed than the next fellow) to your being picked for a soldier to fight for Old Glory. Or you may be asked to put on blue jumpers and run a machine for the government. You'll be needed in the wheatfield as well as the battlefield to fight in the no less glorious army which will serve the flag at home. If you happen to be over six or under par you won't be expected to do as much as the athletes and the leaders. All the nation wants is your share.

It would be easy for the coward's imagination to distort the military census man into a sort of Prussian bogie with a spiked helmet, eyed like steel jacketed bullets and a fountain pen dripping with human blood. As a matter of fact he'll be a good, human American citizen like you and me—very likely a woman, hating war, but not cringing away from his duty. Well, no; let's call it a privilege. Privilege to defend freedom's wings just as these defend you in the day of peace and prosperity. The military census may sound harsh, but it is really a counting of manhood and womanhood. There will be no press gang going around for the purpose of pulling you out of bed and throwing you into a uniform. But the American people, who are giving their blood, brains and money to the winning of this war will not permit the authorities to tolerate the wormlike contentions of the liar and the evader of public duty.

Remember! Anybody who makes up his mind to shirk his job will be making a little more trouble for everybody else—and a great deal for himself. There'll be no stuffing of ballot boxes this election. It's going to be straight. And when the day comes all the government asks of you is:

Be prompt.
Be honest.
Be THERE.

TIRESExpert Advice For the Automobile OwnerQueries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a CarWill you please tell me how one can tell when the magnets of a car need recharging? What does it cost to have them recharged?The magnets are not weak enough to do any harm until the action of the engine is interfered with. Should there be an appreciable power loss and after a very thorough inspection you cannot find the cause to be elsewhere, it can very likely be in weak magnets. If the engine misses and there is no other apparent cause it can be in weak magnets. If the spark will not jump a considerable gap in the plug it is probable that the magnet is weak. Although this is not a sure test, it is a good indication when the engine is running at slow speed. About the average cost of recharging magnets when disassembled is 50 cents; when the repair man has to disassemble them it is $1.Why are the wheels of a car usually made of the same size front and back?They are not always made the same size, but it is more desirable that they should be so than of different diameters in order to avoid carrying different sizes of spare tires and also to enable the car owner to shift his tires about, thus getting greater mileage.Will you please tell me how gasoline and spark are supplied to rotary motors and what their advantages are?Gas is supplied to the cylinders of a rotary cylinder motor through a man-ifold in the form of a ring about the crank shaft, which revolves with the cylinders and from which pipes lead to the inlet valves of each. Gas is taken into this ring through a passage in the crank shaft opening into the manifold or through a stationary half of the ring. The ignition distributor revolves about a stationary brush.
Individual wires leading to each spark plug. The advantages claimed for this type of motor are lightness, due to its compact construction; practicability of air cooling, due to the positive movement of the cylinders through the air;
perfect balance, due to the balancing of all revolving parts, and the stationary crank. In explanation of this last it must be remembered that had balance in the usual type of engine is the result of the reciprocating motion of the pistons and cranks, while in the rotary motors the pistons revolve about a stationary crank pin, while the cylinders revolve about main journals, eccentric with the crank pin. It is this freedom from vibration and lightness that has made this type so popular with aeronauts.In what respect does the American law of the road differ from the English law?In England all vehicles keep to the left, while in America they keep to the right.Will you please explain a good method of figuring horsepower by the bore and stroke of an engine?The accepted method of calculating horsepower, which is used in almost every state as a basis for taxation or rate of license fee, does not take the stroke into consideration. With this formula the horsepower equals the bore squared multiplied by the number of cylinders and divided by the constant 245. Thus in a 5 by 5 inch engine the horsepower equals 5 multiplied by 5 and this multiplied by 4 (assuming that the engine is a four cylinder type) and the result divided by 245, or 40 horsepower.You ask for a formula in which the stroke is a factor. The following method meets this requirement: Horsepower equals 0.107 multiplied by the bore, and this again multiplied by the bore minus 1, multiplied by the stroke divided by the bore, plus 2, and this in turn multiplied by the number of cylinders. In the 5 by 5 inch four cylinder engine previously mentioned horsepower equals 0.107 multiplied by 5, this in turn multiplied by 5 minus 1, multiplied by 1 plus 2, and this in turn multiplied by 4, the resultant horsepower being 47.23.In fixed spark ignition as practiced on a number of cars is there any system used of advancing the spark automatically or does the fact that at higher speeds a faster spark alone solves the problem?The term fixed spark means exactly what it implies, although there are nonadjustable spark systems that au-tomatically advance the spark. In fixed spark systems the spark occurs usually at dead center and remains there at all times. The relatively greater intensity of the current at high speeds reduces the lag in ignition and thus brings the actual ignition nearer the timing at high speeds than at low speeds. Of course a fixed spark system never admits of actual advance and is used only where the greater efficiency and economy of the adjustable spark or automatic spark are not deemed necessary or where the skill of the operator is not great enough to warrant the use of an adjustable spark.
The terms nonadjustable and fixed as applied to spark systems should not be confused. The one is a negative term that embraces both fixed and automatic advance systems, while the latter applies only to systems wherein the timing is constant.

Golden Rule for Telephone.

There is no hope of teaching the elements of courtesy to a telephone, but the application of the Golden Rule by might soften some of their irrepressible and irritating idiosyncrasies.—Minn-apolis Tribune.Would the life of tires be shortened and would I get less mileage from them if I were to buy them two months before using them?It depends entirely on what care you take of the tires. If they were kept in a cool, dark place wrapped in cloth or paper they would be as good as new when you wanted to use them. If they were left where sunlight or heat could get at them the rubber would lose some of its wearing ability even in that short time.I notice that all late models of cars are making an effort to get more hot air through the air intake of the carburetor. Is it possible to get the air too hot so that it interferes with the engine working at its maximum power, provided there is always an ample supply of fresh, cool air admitted to the heater?In drawing the hot air from the engine itself either from a store on the muffler or through indirect heat by water jacketing there is no chance of getting too much hot air.What are the advantages and disadvantages of the automatic spark control over the manual control, and is the automatic control as used by leading motorcar manufacturers reliable and positive in its action or is it likely to get out of order easily and thus disor-ganize the system?For the inexperienced driver the automatic advance is of special value since it properly takes care of the imitation requirements at all engine speeds.

One who is not a very good driver is apt to have the spark retarded too far when going at high speed or have too great an advance for pulling and slow running. On the other hand, the automatic advance is mechanical and cannot take care of every contingency as well as an experienced driver can.
There is also more of a chance for it to get out of order than the manual advance, and, being less dependable and more of a complication, most makers adhere to the hand advance. In fact, you will find very few cars in which there is not provision for spark regulation by the driver.How can I soften a cone clutch?
I have tried kerosene oil and graphite,
but the effect lasts only a short time when the clutch becomes harsh again.When a leather faced cone clutch develops a tendency to grab or take hold freely, causing the car to jump forward with a bound upon starting, instead of moving off gradually, it is an indication that the leather has become dry and requires a little treatment with castor or neatfoot oil. The best method of applying either of these oils is to remove the clutch and immerse it in a basin of the oil.To keep a leather faced cone clutch in good working order it should be given an application of oil every few weeks. This may be done by throwing out the clutch, then securing the clutch pedal in a manner that will hold it out overnight. A block of wood carefully wedged between the front edge of the seat and the depressed clutch pedal will serve to hold the clutch out very nicely where there is no connection between the pedal and emergency brake. When the clutch has been secured in the disengaged position it should be revolved slowly while a stream of the oil is slowly poured on to the clutch leather and allowed to run down between the leather and the internal friction surface of the flywheel, a pad being placed below the flywheel to catch that which runs out below. When the leather has been thoroughly anointed the oil should be allowed to soak in for several hours.When a slipping clutch has been neglected to such an extent that the surface of the leather has been burned and become hard and glazed the leather will not respond to an oil treatment, and the only suitable remedy is to fit a new clutch leather. To do this one should remove the old leather very carefully, so that it can be got off intact and used as a pattern for cutting the new leather.Clutch leather should be cut from the thick part of the hide and put on rough side out. In applying the leather one must begin tacking in the rivets at one end and work around the clutch, stretching the leather between each rivet or pair of them. One should be careful to counter sink the holes for the rivet heads so that they sink well below the surface of the leather.
After the leather has been applied it is customary to true up the surface on a lathe, then soak in oil for a few hours.Which will wear the longer under ordinary conditions, the right or left front tire?There will be very little difference in the wear of the two front tires.
The fact that the driver usually sits on the left side and frequently is the only extra weight in the car would tend to cause slightly more wear on the left tire. On the other hand, the fact that most of the turns are made to the left when turning around would cause the right tire to travel the greatest distance, and on this basis it would wear more quickly. Taken all in all, the wear is about equal in ordinary cases.

Silver Trumpets.

The silver trumpets which Moses was charged to furnish the Israelites were to be used for the calling together of the assembly; for the joining of camps, for sounding the alarm of war; for celebrating the sacrifices on festivals and new moons (Numbers 10: 1-10).

Automobile manufacturing is no longer a question of making a dependable motor car.
Economy to the owner in operating expense is the important thought.We have done valuable experimental and designing work, with the result that the average number of miles to the gallon of gasoline is unusually high, and the tire mileage is also unusually high.Proper weight, construction and spring suspension are responsible for this marked change in automobile efficiency.

SHERIFF WILL AID REGISTRARS

Experts Will Make Personal Visits and Reports Will be Collected by Sheriff's Aides—School of Instruction Held.

In order to give the registrars throughout the county any information which they may want on registration day, Sheriff Shultz has arranged the county into seven districts and men will be sent out from the sheriff's office at noon next Tuesday and during the afternoon they will visit every registration district in the county. These men sent out will be competent to give any information which the registrars may need in regard to questions which arise during the day. They will also show registrars how to make out their summary report if necessary.

After the polls close in the evening, a representative from the sheriff's office will call at the country polls and collect the returns. This will save the registrars a trip to Kingston as under the law the returns must be sent in to the sheriff. Every registrar who finishes his work early in the evening is asked by the sheriff to wait at the polls until the men come around and collect the returns. As there are a large number of registration districts in the county it may be an hour or two after closing time before the collector arrives at your polling place but the sheriff requests everyone to wait until the collector has gathered in the returns.

This applies only to the country districts, every district in the city will bring their returns directly to the sheriff as soon as completed.

A school for registrars will be held tonight at the court house at 8 o'clock for all registrars in the city and any other part of the county where information is desired. A school was held Friday evening at the sheriff's office when the registrars from the town of Saugerties were given information as to their work next Tuesday.

By abiding by the requests of the sheriff the work of the registrars will be greatly lessened on registration day and any question which arises will be disposed of when the representative calls at the polling place in the afternoon of registration day.

Oscar in Clover.

The good effort at applying lime in large quantities as a fertilizer was never more plainly seen than in the case of the land of Ralph LeFevre, rented by August Tschirky on the state road at Bontecoe. There is a fine crop of clover growing on the 25 acre lot, always called the Big Meadow. The 15 acre lot called the Old Orchard has been sown with oats.—New Paltz Independent.

Child Not Unlike Adult.

The child in its disposition is not unlike an adult. Normally, both are happy and contented as long as they are feeling well, and the healthier they are the more responsive is their disposition. But if the head is dull and the brain is sluggish and the muscles have a tired feeling from a poor digestion, then both the adult and the child become irritable and quick tempered, doing only those things which one wishes to do, carefree and discontented.

He Lacked Concentration.

Speaking of a man who was a failure because of his lack of concentration and his inability to know his own mind for minutes at a time, a captain of industry said he remembered him of a hunting dog he once owned.

"At sunrise the dog would start out on his own hook after deer. He would jump a buck and run him for miles. When the buck was on the point of exhaustion the hound's nostrils would catch the faint in the air where a fox had crossed the trail, and he would instantly decide that, after all, fox was what he had come for, and he would turn aside to pursue the fox. Perhaps an hour later, when the chase was growing warmer every minute, his keen nose would detect the presence of a rabbit, and he would go after the cottontail, with the inevitable result that by 4 o'clock in the afternoon that hound would be thirty or forty miles away from home in a swamp with a chipmunk tread!"—Saturday Evening Post.

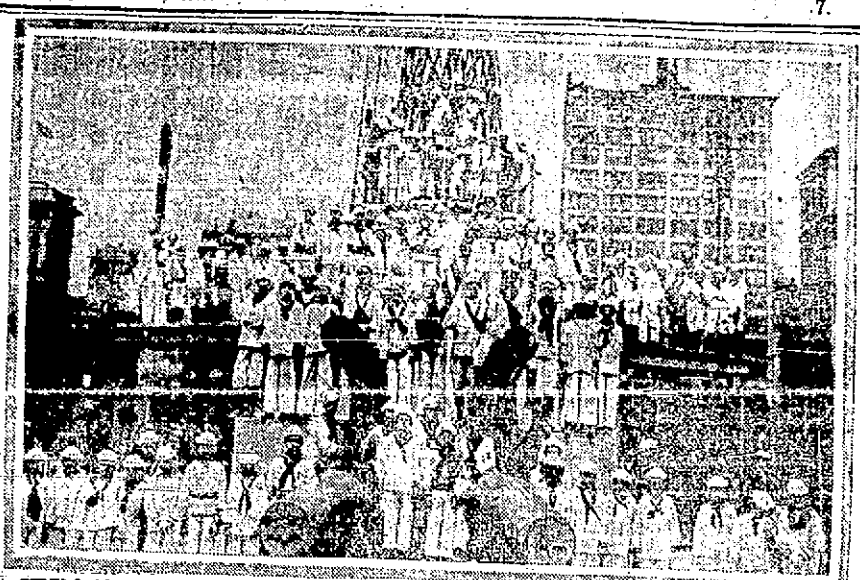

George and His Legs.

Bit by bit the historical grubbers are digging out the truth about our immortal George. We have heretofore been told that he wore false teeth and that at Valley Forge he unashamedly devoured his ragged and despondent troops with the arrival of ample supplies of ammunition, which consisted of powder barrels filled with sand, and now a correspondent of the New York Sun declares that in the full length portraits of Washington by Stuart, of which there is one in the New York public library, the legs were not his own. "I have seen the letter from Stuart thanking the true owner for his kindness in providing a symmetrical foundation for the bust of the great president and presenting one of the smaller portraits in thanks for his kindness."

Free Speech.

An old negro woman had lived with a certain family in the south for many years. One day her mistress had occasion to reprimand her quite sharply for something that had gone wrong. The negro said nothing at the time, but a little later her voice could be heard in the kitchen in shrill vituperation of everything and everybody, with a rattling accompaniment of pans and kettles. So loud became the clamor and so vindictive the exclamations that Mrs. C. went hurriedly down to the kitchen.

"Why, Liza," she began in amazement, "who on earth are you talking to?" "I ain't talkin' to nobody," the old negro replied, "but I don't keer who in his house hears me."—Harper's Magazine.

CREW OF U.S.S. RECRUIT. U. S. S. RECRUIT "LAUNCHED" IN NEW YORK PARK.

Most important of the exercises held in New York city on Memorial Day was the "launching" of the U. S. S. "Recruit." The battle-gray landship, built in Union Square Park, was turned over to Rear Admiral Usher, commandant of the New York Navy Yard, by Mayor Mitchell. The "Recruit" is built of wood and was paid for by popular subscription. It is to serve as a recruiting headquarters for the navy and marine corps, which are not covered by the conscription law. The photograph shows members of the American Junior Naval and Marine Scout on board the wooden vessel.

POVERTY OF WEALTH.

There Are Many, Many Things That Money Cannot Buy.

If you have wealth you can purchase a hundred outfits of wearing apparel, but you can only wear one at a time. Socrates never owned but one pair of shoes, but his name is immortal. If you have wealth you can purchase beautiful paintings and adorn your home with statues. That wouldn't bring you happiness. If you have wealth you can purchase furniture inlaid with gold and upholstered with fine fabrics. That doesn't mean contentment.

If you have wealth you can purchase a great park and erect a splendid mansion, but tradition tells us that there was a very happy man who lived in a tub and when the king came to see him and asked what he could desire from the king Digenes replied, "That you would stop from between me and the sun." If you have wealth you can possess an organ with golden pipes, but Beethoven composed his immortal symphonies on a cheap harpsichord. If you have wealth you can equip a luxurious studio, but Turner painted in a garret and mixed his colors in a broken teacup.

Money can purchase copies of Sir Joshua Reynolds, but God gives the sunset away free. Money can employ musicians to perform for a private concert, but the song of the lark in the tree and the music of children's laughter is for the millionaire and the poor man alike. Wealth cannot purchase the great things of life. It cannot buy a contented mind and a serene life. It cannot purchase goodness and beauty. —Dale H. Carnegie in Leslie's.

Arabs Not Much Changed.

The Arab is physically and intellectually as virile as he ever was, but superficially he is unrecognizable as his former self. In the early days of the Arabian caliphate, not only was the Arab world prosperous, but we have records of an elaboration of government and a complexity of administration which would astonish those who are only acquainted with the social and political conditions under which Arabs live today.

Followed Instructions.

Ted's sister had a friend call on her. Ted saluted him by his nickname and was told that he must never shorten anyone's name. The next morning Ted came in from the poultry yard and said: "That gray duck cuts all the corn because she has such a broad 'William.'"

Timbre! Now the Tamborine.

The timbre of the Bible was the instrument known today as the tamborine. It was used in early times by the Syrians of Pagan-aram at their merry makings (Genesis 31:27).

Cromwell's Last Words.

Of the great Oliver, who brought Charles I to the scaffold, Thomas Carlyle has written a notable book, and in the fine description of the death scene Cromwell's last words are recorded. When, being restless, he was offered something to drink, he said: "It is not my design to drink or sleep, but my design is to make what haste I can to be gone."

Christening a Nation.

Anxious to enlarge the limited vocabulary of the children, a teacher asked what name was given to men who ate other human beings. "Savages" and "cannibals" were the only words most of them could give. At length the eagerness of a bright-eyed boy indicated that he thought he had a better word. It was "Manchus!"

No More Fairy Tales.

"Now the giant had a wonderful musical instrument which would cry out if anybody tried to steal it." "I don't see anything so wonderful about it. I think maybe we could arrange our graphophone to do that."
